Hawks Gains Transcontinental Speed Record

CLIPS TWO HOURS
FROM MARK SET
BY COL. LINDBERGH

TIME FOR DASH ACROSS CONTINENT WAS 12 HOURS, 25 MINUTES

ONLY 11 HOURS AND 40 MINUTES OF PERIOD SPENT IN AIR

New York, Aug. 14.—Capt. Frank M. Hawks, who in 20 months has cut the flying time between the Pacific and Atlantic almost in half, again held the transcontinental speed record today.

Racing eastward from Los Angeles in the swiftest and most brilliant long distance flight this country has seen, Hawks clipped two hours yesterday from the mark set by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and regained the laurels which that famous air idol had taken from him.

His time for the transcontinental dash was 12 hours and 25 minutes, although only 11 hours and 40 minutes of that period was spent in the air. The captain was clocked in at Curtiss Field, Valley Stream, L. I., at 6:41:30 P. M. EDT. last night.

Captain Hawks now holds all records for cross-country flying.

On his westward flight last week in the small, low-winged Travelair monoplane built specially for the record attempts, he lowered the Atlantic-to-Pacific mark of Col. Roscoe Turner. The fastest westward flight had been made by the late Capt. C. E. D. Collier.

A dazzling pace of 220 miles an hour was set for the 2,510 miles traversed in yesterday's flight.

"I don't think it can be done any faster," Hawks said after he had set his plane down at Roosevelt Field. "In the fall, in exceptionally advantageous weather, it is just possible that the time I made today can be bettered."

Huntington, Pa., Aug. 14.—Edward Schneider, 18, attempting to break the junior transcontinental flight record, was forced down here today by fog.

Schneider landed at 8:15 A. M. at the Huntington airport and attempted to continue his flight at 11:15 A. M. After flying to Water Street, Pa., 12 miles away, he was forced to land at Passenger field there. The fog made continuation impossible, he said.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Rain worth millions of dollars saturated a wide area of the drought-stricken central west and south today, saving the remnants of crops withered by intense heat and one of the most protracted dry spells in the nation's history.

The downpour, general and soaking, covered the Ohio river valley, bringing relief and rejoicing to farmers in Kentucky, Tennessee, southern Illinois and Indiana, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Precipitation averaged nearly an inch over the central western states visited by the rain, while from the three southern states came reports that the moving storm had dropped 0.11 inches of moisture and probably would continue.

Moderate Temperatures
Throughout Northwest

St. Paul, Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Moderate temperatures throughout the northwest today and rain during the past 24 hours in a number of localities have relieved drought conditions and have reduced the danger of forest fires.

A. F. Oppel, deputy state forester, said recent rainfall in northern Minnesota had reduced the hazard of forest fires there and that most fires now were out or well under control.

In the Twin Cities the temperature was 86 at noon with a forecast of fair and not much change in temperature for the coming 24 hours.

REPORTS 3 NEGROES
DRAGGED GIRL
FROM HIS CAR

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Milton Rogers of Ancler reported to Raleigh police today that Viola Evans, of Elizabeth, with whom he was riding in an automobile, was dragged from the car by three negroes and carried off shortly before 1 a. m. A posse was organized at once to search for the missing girl.

He had met the girl only last night, Rogers said. After driving around Raleigh for a while, he said, he decided to take her to her home at Elizabeth. While en route the kidnapping occurred, he said.

At dawn posses under the direction of Deputy Sheriff Clyde Whitaker began searching the woods surrounding Garner, N. C., where Rogers said the kidnapping occurred. Fear was expressed she might have been murdered.

Lambert-St. Louis Field, St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—Their last honors regained with the recovery of the world's endurance refueling flight record, Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brien added gold to glory with each passing hour aloft today.

At 6:11 A. M. CST, the flyers had plotted their orange and yellow monoplane, the Greater St. Louis, through the air for 575 hours—22 hours longer than the previous record of 553 hours established by John and Kenneth Hunter in Chicago a month ago.

The first profit of the flight began when they broke the record when an oil company agreed to pay $100 an hour until the flyers had topped the previous record by 70 hours.

This is significant since it insures necessary capital to carry on the flight. At one time the flyers indicated that they might be forced to land because of lack of funds.

An electrical storm with intermittent rainfall kept watchers at the field alert during the night. However, an occasional green flare from the plane indicated everything was well.

Thousands of people—the largest crowd since the flight began—visited the field during the night and constantly cheered the fliers.

In celebration of their feat the ground crew staged a fireworks display last night. The flyers, 3,500 feet above, aided in the celebration by dropping an occasional flare.

Congratulations began pouring into the re-fueling headquarters from many cities last night. The messages will be given to the flyers today. Among the first to send messages was Bert Kaul, Faribault, Minn., grocer, who once employed Jackson as a delivery boy.

The flyers are hovering within gliding distance of the field to prevent endangering their record. The National Aeronautic Association contest rules requires flyers to land at the point of take-off for official recognition.

In his last note, O'Brien said: "I think we will be up until next year if the weather and everything holds out. We are not getting far from the field so we can set the plane down, drop it down or throw it down—just so we get down."

It was estimated that the six cylinder Curtiss Challenger engine has made more than 44,000,000 revolutions and the plane has covered a distance of approximately 40,000 miles.

St. Louis, Aug. 14.—While Dale Jackson was busy with his partner, Forrest O'Brien, setting a new endurance flight record yesterday, a 25-year-old aviatrix wrested another air record from the flier.

Miss Laura Ingalls went aloft and broke Jackson's record of 417 barrel rolls when she completed 714 rolls. The girl was aloft 3 hours and 39 minutes.

Princeton, B. C., Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Hundreds of tons of debris today hid the fate of 46 miners who were trapped far underground last night when a terrific gas explosion wrecked the No. 4 mine of the Coalmont collier at Blakeburn near here.

There was no communication with the entombed miners and their rescue if they were not killed by the explosion, hinged on whether the shaft could be opened in 24 to 36 hours.

Trained teams of rescue workers who were rushed to the mine from Princeton and Merritt to work under the direction of George Murray, manager of the mine, and John Biggs, mine inspector, worked their way into the main shaft of the mine, three hundred feet and found the walls and roof had completely collapsed. Two dead men and one alive who is expected to recover were found at that level.

The debris, however, completely blocked further passage and its removal will be a slow and tedious process. Whether it will take a day or week, or even more, none of the rescuers would estimate as it was unknown how far into the shaft the roof was wrecked. The rescue crews were hampered considerably by the presence of the gas which caused the explosion and fire hoses through which air was pumped were sent into the shaft to clear the atmosphere.

If the debris can be cleared within a reasonable time, there is a fair chance that some of the miners may be found alive. There are some 6,000 feet of old workings in the mine and if the miners are in the clear works behind the portion which collapsed, the air contained in the old works may be sufficient to support them for a day or two.

UNDERWORLD
GANG RULE CHARGED WITH FIVE MURDERS

By United Press

Underworld rule by bullets was charged with five additional murders today in the middle west.

Three gangsters were assassinated near St. Paul, one near Chicago and another at Detroit during the night.

The St. Paul slayings of Sammy Stein and Frank Coleman, of Kansas City, and "Butch" Myers, of St. Paul, were believed to have announced entry of the George "Bugs" Moran gang, of Chicago, into a struggle for control of northwest liquor traffic.

The three victims were found on a road to an inn where Moran's followers had been reported organizing. In a Chicago suburb, Danny Vallo, once sought in the massacre of Moran gangsters, was shot by two men as he stepped from an automobile.

The peace in Detroit's underworld was ended when Carl Stilliana, 35, was killed while driving an automobile.

The three outbreaks apparently had no connection except that all were presumed to have resulted from gang rivalry.

Coley, Kan., Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Reports issuing from Chicago that Marion Talley's 200 acres of corn was totally ruined by the recent drought were emphatically denied by farmers of this section today.

The former opera star's ranch was outside the drought area, it was pointed out. Her corn has every indication of making an excellent yield this year.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 14.—A request for financial credit facilities to aid drought-stricken states was presented to President Hoover today by ten governors and representatives from two other states at the outset of their conference at the White House.

Credit was said to be the most urgent need of the states affected by the drought. The conference with governors of states and officials of the agriculture department and federal farm board was called to order by the president at 2:30 P. M. in the cabinet room. All crops in Ohio, Governor Cooper said, declined 94 per cent during July and by August 4 were 22 per cent below average. The drought has left practically no pasturage in the state, he added.

"Our immediate need is to save the livestock," Governor Erickson of Montana said as he entered the conference. The Montana governor said the wheat crop of his state is about 40 per cent of normal but the greatest problem was to get feed for the livestock. Governor Weaver of Nebraska brought the most optimistic report to the conference. He said that in general Nebraska was in good shape. Governor Conley of West Virginia said the drought was only severe in ten of the 55 counties of his state.

"We need financial assistance to carry our breeding stock," Conley said. He had figures showing the oat crop is about 90 per cent of what it was last year, the corn crop 40 per cent and the apple crop 80 per cent. The commercial apple crop is only about 40 per cent, he said, however.

Senator Robinson, republican, Kentucky, said the drought has thrown tens of thousands out of employment.

The peace in Detroit's underworld was ended when Carl Stilliana, 35, was killed while driving an automobile.

DIRIGIBLE R-100
SPEEDS SWIFTLY
OUT TO SEA TODAYCHALLENGING TRANS-ATLANTIC
SPEED RECORD OF GRAF
ZEPPELINAPPEARS TO HAVE EXCELLENT
CHANCE TO MAKE A FAST
CROSSINGBy GILBERT DRAPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, Que., Aug. 14.—The British dirigible R-100, challenging the trans-Atlantic speed record of the Graf Zeppelin, sped swiftly out to sea on its return voyage from Montreal to England today.

The dirigible appeared to have an excellent chance for a record. Since leaving this airport at 6:30 P. M. EST. yesterday, it had averaged about 68 miles an hour up to 8 A. M. EST. today.

The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia reported sighting the R-100 at 12:30 P. M. EST., 112 miles east of Belle Isle, sailing east in the bright sunshine, with a fair westerly breeze. The airship then had made about 1,070 statute miles from Montreal.

St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, Aug. 14.—The world's largest dirigible, R-100, sped before a stiff wind down the St. Lawrence valley today, setting a pace that held promise of a record breaking flight across the Atlantic ocean on its return trip to Cordington, England.

The big dirigible, with one of its six motors crippled, made 60 knots before a 45-mile-per-hour wind and under favorable skies.

Its average speed of about 72 miles an hour indicated the R-100 would reach the Atlantic coast several hours before noon, depending on whether Commander R. B. B. Colmore followed his proposed route to Cape Breton.

A message from the R-100 given out shortly after 11 o'clock said the dirigible was in latitude 50:06, setting a course for the Strait of Belle Isle.

Meteorologists reported the prospects for the flight excellent, with good weather and tail winds to speed the craft at least half way across the ocean.

After taking aboard its dozen passengers in addition to the officers and crew of 45 men, the R-100 left the airport mooring mast half an hour before its scheduled time of departure and flew toward Montreal as thousands of spectators shouted farewell.

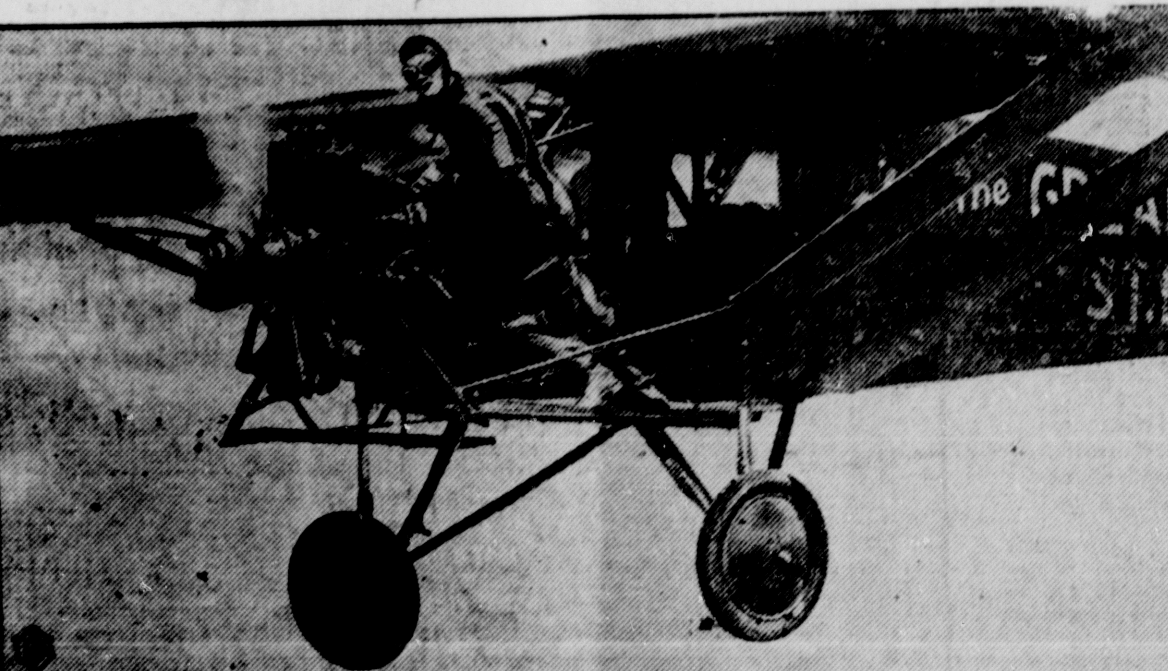

A few minutes later its red light appeared to watchers in Montreal, ten miles away.

Commander R. B. B. Colmore described the return trip as "a normal flight" when he told Canadians that the R-100 would return next spring "as soon as the snow clears."

Thrilling Moment in Endurance Flight

Dale "Red" Jackson takes a stroll on the catwalk of "The Greater St. Louis" as he flies over the St. Louis Municipal Airport while adding hour after hour to the endurance record which he and his partner, Forrest O'Brien established yesterday, when they passed the old record of 553 hours set by the Hunter brothers recently in Chicago. The photo was taken from another plane in flight. At 3:11 P. M. today the plane had been in the air for 584 hours.

GUN SHOTS
RESOUND ALONG
LONELY ROADONE OF MEN FOUND DEAD IN
PARKED AUTOMOBILE BY
RHINOW SQUADSECOND MAN DIED IN HOSPITAL,
THIRD BODY FOUND 200
FEET FROM CAR

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Three gangsters were assassinated last night by rivals along a lonely cross roads near the Wildwood Amusement Park.

The dead men were identified tentatively as:

Sammy Stein, alias Heckel, Minneapolis and Kansas City underworld character who was suspected of the Home Trust and Savings Bank holdup in Kansas City during the 1928 national republican convention and of the $67,000 bank of Willmar robbery last month.

Frank M. Coleman, one time chauffeur for Solly Weisman, Kansas City gambler.

"Butch" Myers, St. Paul underworld character.

There was the slightest possibility that a fourth victim would be found since three hats were found in the parked automobile near where all the bodies were discovered by General W. F. Rhinow, head of the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, and a squad of state operatives who were searching the vicinity on reports that George (Bugs) Moran, Chicago rival of the Capones who has moved into Minnesota, had established headquarters there.

Coleman's body was found near the parked automobile with its burning headlights which attracted the attention of General Rhinow and his operatives as they cruised along the back highways. A loaded revolver was found by his side. Investigators said apparently he was too slow for his rivals on the draw of his gun.

Myers was unconscious when his body was found. He was rushed to St. John's hospital here where he died shortly before 3:30 A. M. today.

The third body was found some 200 feet from the bullet-wrecked automobile when investigators returned this morning. Both bodies were taken to Stillwater.

A tear gas bomb and a state prohibition agent's badge were found in the pockets of the third man.

Police believed that there might be a fourth victim because three hats were found in the car and Stein wore a hat. Investigators under General Rhinow and Sheriff T. H. Maher of Washington county began a wide search of the surrounding countryside.

The Missouri license plate on the parked car had been issued to Coleman.

First reports suggested the possibility that George (Bugs) Moran might have been a victim were unconfirmed when police checked the bodies with descriptions that were forwarded from Chicago.

Moran was known to be visiting in the northwest but he was reported to be vacationing north of the Twin Cities, near Brainerd in the heart of the northwest woodlands summer vacation district.

Stein was shot from the back, probably as he attempted to escape from the killers in the underbrush near the roadside. The bullet entered near his ear and came out through his eye.

Myers was shot three times in the head. His body was some 50 feet from the car. As police reconstructed the scene, he was shot down shortly before the marksmen turned their fire on Stein.

Coleman had powder burns on his jaw where the bullets had killed him. He was the first man killed, according to the police's reconstructed scene of the killings.

The assassination was the largest in northwest history, police records revealed.

A gold basketball bearing the inscription, "K. C. 29," was dangling from a chain on Coleman's body. He was a young man of about 25 years of age and police said the athletic token aided them in their identification of Coleman.

Shots from a .45 calibre revolver killed the men, investigators said.

Sheriff George Mueller of Ramsey county (St. Paul) this week wrote the Chicago Herald and Examiner protesting their statements that Moran gangsters had moved to Minneapolis under police protection. He declared that "there are no gangsters in this vicinity." Today he went to Stillwater to aid Sheriff Maher in his investigation of the shootings.

A bank draft for $2,000 payable to A. Myers and $300 in cash was found in the pockets of the dead men.

Stein has been sought for some weeks by operatives of the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension for questioning regarding the sub-machine gun holdup of the bank of Willmar during which $67,000 was taken and two women bystanders were shot by slugs.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Danny Vallo, 38, who had a long police record and was indicted.

STARVING FATHER AND SON KILLED
IN POTATO PATCH

Toledo, O., Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—An unemployed father and his young son, trying to steal potatoes for a hungry family of six children, were shot and killed today by the farmer who owns the potato patch.

The victims are Elmer C. Tilton and his son, Louis.

The farmer, Lester Coy, 23, is held for investigation.

Coy said the shooting climaxed a series of raids on the patch.

Mrs. Tilton told police her husband and son had been out of work for months. There are six other children in the family besides Louis, she said.

Twenty-one warships and four Chinese gunboats lay in the harbor.

Under command of Admiral Thomas T. Crave, the American warships Luzon, Guam and Panay remain at Hankow, with the warships Tutilla and Palos at Changsha. The Japanese have posted five vessels at Changsha and four at Kiukiang.

Spokesmen of the nationalist party were protesting bitterly today at the presence of foreign warships, but the anxiety of both Chinese and foreigners has been allayed.

Underworld rule by bullets was charged with five additional murders today in the middle west.

Three gangsters were assassinated near St. Paul, one near Chicago and another at Detroit during the night.

The St. Paul slayings of Sammy Stein and Frank Coleman, of Kansas City, and "Butch" Myers, of St. Paul, were believed to have announced entry of the George "Bugs" Moran gang, of Chicago, into a struggle for control of northwest liquor traffic.

The three victims were found on a road to an inn where Moran's followers had been reported organizing.

In a Chicago suburb, Danny Vallo, once sought in the massacre of Moran

MARION TALLEY'S
CORN WAS RUINED

Coley, Kan., Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Reports issuing from Chicago that Marion Talley's 200 acres of corn was totally ruined by the recent drought were emphatically denied by farmers of this section today.

The former opera star's ranch was outside the drought area, it was pointed out. Her corn has every indication of making an excellent yield this year.

TEN GOVERNORS
SEEK FINANCIAL AID FOR DROUGHTEXECUTIVES GIVE REPORTS ON CONDITIONS IN THEIR
STATESIMMEDIATE NEED IN MONTANA
IS TO SAVE THE LIVE-
STOCKBy PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 14.—A request for financial credit facilities to aid drought-stricken states was presented to President Hoover today by ten governors and representatives from two other states at the outset of their conference at the White House.

Credit was said to be the most urgent need of the states affected by the drought. The conference with governors of states and officials of the agriculture department and federal farm board was called to order by the president at 2:30 P. M. in the cabinet room.

All crops in Ohio, Governor Cooper said, declined 9.4 per cent during July and by August 4 were 22 per cent below average. The drought has left practically no pasturage in the state, he added.

"Our immediate need is to save the livestock," Governor Erickson of Montana said as he entered the conference. The Montana governor said the wheat crop of his state is about 40 per cent of normal but the greatest problem was to get feed for the livestock.

Governor Weaver of Nebraska brought the most optimistic report to the conference. He said that in general Nebraska was in good shape. Governor Conley of West Virginia said the drought was only severe in ten of the 55 counties of his state.

"We need financial assistance to carry our breeding stock," Conley said. He had figures showing the oat crop is about 90 per cent of what it was last year, the corn crop 40 per cent and the apple crop 80 per cent. The commercial apple crop is only about 40 per cent, he said, however.

Senator Robinson, republican, Kentucky, said the drought has thrown tens of thousands out of employment.

gangsters, was shot by two men as he stepped from an automobile.

The peace in Detroit's underworld was ended when Carl Stilliana, 35, was killed while driving an automobile.

The three outbreaks apparently had no connection except that all were presumed to have resulted from gang rivalry.

DIRIGIBLE R-100
SPEEDS SWIFTLY
OUT TO SEA TODAYCHALLENGING TRANS-ATLANTIC
SPEED RECORD OF GRAF
ZEPPELINAPPEARS TO HAVE EXCELLENT
CHANCE TO MAKE A FAST
CROSSING

By GILBERT DRAPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, Que., Aug. 14.—The British dirigible R-100, challenging the trans-Atlantic speed record of the Graf Zeppelin, sped swiftly out to sea on its return voyage from Montreal to England today.

The dirigible appeared to have an excellent chance for a record. Since leaving this airport at 6:30 P. M. EST. yesterday, it had averaged about 68 miles an hour up to 8 A. M. EST. today.

The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia reported sighting the R-100 at 12:30 P. M. EST., 112 miles east of Belle Isle, sailing east in the bright sunshine, with a fair westerly breeze. The airship then had made about 1,070 statute miles from Montreal.

St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, Aug. 14.—The world's largest dirigible, R-100, sped before a stiff wind down the St. Lawrence valley today, setting a pace that held promise of a record breaking flight across the Atlantic ocean on its return trip to Cordoning, England.

The big dirigible, with one of its six motors crippled, made 60 knots before a 45-mile-per-hour wind and under favorable skies.

Its average speed of about 72 miles an hour indicated the R-100 would reach the Atlantic coast several hours before noon, depending on whether Commander R. B. B. Colmore followed his proposed route to Cape Breton.

A message from the R-100 given out shortly after 11 o'clock said the dirigible was in latitude 50-06, setting a course for the Strait of Belle Isle.

Meteorologists reported the prospects for the flight excellent, with good weather and tail winds to speed the craft at least half way across the ocean.

After taking aboard its dozen passengers in addition to the officers and crew of 45 men, the R-100 left the airport mooring mast half an hour before its scheduled time of departure and flew toward Montreal as thousands of spectators shouted farewell.

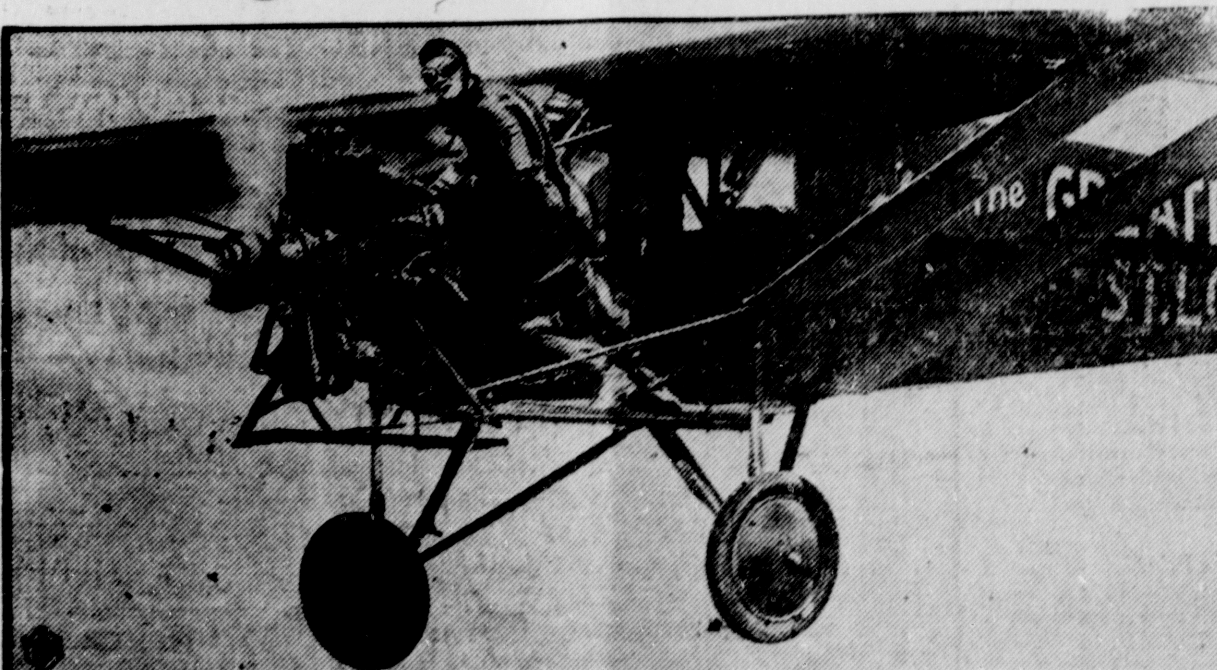

A few minutes later its red light appeared to watchers in Montreal, ten miles away.

Commander R. B. B. Colmore described the return trip as "a normal flight" when he told Canadians that the R-100 would return next spring "as soon as the snow clears."

Thrilling Moment in Endurance Flight

Dale "Red" Jackson takes a stroll on the catwalk of "The Greater St. Louis" as he flies over the St. Louis Municipal Airport while adding hour after hour to the endurance record which he and his partner, Forrest O'Brien established yesterday, when they passed the old record of 553 hours set by the Hunter brothers recently in Chicago. The photo was taken from another plane in flight. At 3:11 P. M. today the plane had been in the air for 584 hours.

GUN SHOTS
RESOUND ALONG
LONELY ROADONE OF MEN FOUND DEAD IN
PARKED AUTOMOBILE BY
RHINOW SQUADSECOND MAN DIED IN HOSPITAL,
THIRD BODY FOUND 200
FEET FROM CAR

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Three gangsters were assassinated last night by rivals along a lonely cross roads near the Wildwood Amusement Park.

The dead men were identified tentatively as:

Sammy Stein, alias Heckel, Minneapolis and Kansas City underworld character who was suspected of the Home Trust and Savings Bank holdup in Kansas City during the 1928 national republican convention and of the $67,000 bank of Willmar robbery last month.

Frank M. Coleman, one time chauffeur for Solly Weisman, Kansas City gambler.

"Butch" Myers, St. Paul underworld character.

There was the slightest possibility that a fourth victim would be found since three hats were found in the parked automobile near where all the bodies were discovered by General W. F. Rhinow, head of the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, and a squad of state operatives who were searching the vicinity on reports that George (Bugs) Moran, Chicago rival of the Capones who has moved into Minnesota, had established headquarters there.

Coleman's body was found near the parked automobile with its burning headlights which attracted the attention of General Rhinow and his operatives as they cruised along the back highways. A loaded revolver was found by his side. Investigators said apparently he was too slow for his rivals on the draw of his gun.

Myers was unconscious when his body was found. He was rushed to St. John's hospital where he died shortly before 3:30 A. M. today.

The third body was found some 200 feet from the bullet-wrecked automobile when investigators returned this morning. Both bodies were taken to Stillwater.

A tear gas bomb and a state prohibition agent's badge were found in the pockets of the third man.

Police believed that there might be a fourth victim because three hats were found in the car and Stein was a hat. Investigators under General Rhinow and Sheriff T. H. Maher of Washington county began a wide search of the surrounding countryside.

The Missouri license plate on the parked car had been issued to Coleman.

First reports suggested the possibility that George (Bugs) Moran might have been a victim were unconfirmed when police checked the bodies with descriptions that were forwarded from Chicago.

Moran was known to be visiting in the northwest but he was reported to be vacationing north of the Twin Cities, near Brainerd in the heart of the northwest woodlands summer vacation district.

Stein was shot from the back, probably as he attempted to escape from the killers in the underbrush near the roadside. The bullet entered near his ear and came out through his eye.

Myers was shot three times in the head. His body was some 50 feet from the car. As police reconstructed the scene, he was shot down shortly before the marksmen turned their fire on Stein.

Coleman had powder burns on his jaw where the bullets had killed him. He was the first man killed, according to the police's reconstructed scene of the killings.

The assassination was the largest in northwest history, police records revealed.

A gold basketball bearing the inscription, "K. C. 29," was dangling from a chain on Coleman's body. He was a young man of about 25 years of age and police said the athletic token aided them in their identification of Coleman.

Shots from a .45 calibre revolver killed the men, investigators said.

Sheriff George Moeller of Ramsey county (St. Paul) this week wrote the Chicago Herald and Examiner protesting their statements that Moran gangsters had moved to Minneapolis under police protection. He declared that there are no gangsters in this vicinity. "Today he went to Stillwater to aid Sheriff Maher in his investigation of the shootings."

A bank draft for $2,000 payable to A. Myers and $300 in cash was found in the pockets of the dead men.

Stein has been sought for some weeks by operatives of the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension for questioning regarding the sub-machine gun holdup of the bank of Willmar during which $67,000 was taken and two women bystanders were shot by slugs.

The farmer, Lester Coy, 23, is held for investigation.

Coy said the shooting climaxed a series of raids on the patch.

Mrs. Tilton told police her husband and son had been out of work for months. There are six other children in the family besides Louis, she said.

THE CITY21 WARSHIPS AND 4 CHINESE GUNBOATS ARE LYING IN THE HARBOR

Hankow, Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Foreign defenses around this city were the strongest in its history today, as the interior continued to seethe with the depredations of communist brigands.

A picked company of British infantrymen patrolled the city.

Twenty-one warships and four Chinese gunboats lay in the harbor.

Under command of Admiral Thomas T. Crave, the American warships Luzon, Guam and Panay remain at Hankow, with the warships Tutuila and Palos at Changsha. The Japanese have posted five vessels at Changsha and four at Kiukiang.

Spokesmen of the nationalist party were protesting bitterly today at the presence of foreign warships, but the anxiety of both Chinese and foreigners has been allayed.

Overproduction or Underconsumption

THE National City Bank of New York publishes regular reviews of the business situation and that of August takes up many matters of interest, especially the section relating to overproduction or underconsumption. It is explained that the argument rages as to which of these conditions is responsible for the accumulation of apparently surplus stocks of many kinds of merchandise, and the fall of prices to levels that are agreed to be below production costs. It is conceded that maladjustment exists, but where lies the responsibility and what can be done about it?

Such a situation affords a great opportunity for reformers who have schemes for the fundamental reorganization of society, and who hope that discontent with unsatisfactory conditions will get them a hearing. Well meaning people send out vague appeals to the "leaders of business" to remedy the ills of the situation, lest some dire consequences befall them as a result of neglect of public duty. All of these leaders of business of course are involved in a situation so far beyond their control that they scarcely know how to manage their own affairs in it, to say nothing of joining in a round table conference for the purpose of setting the world to rights. Incidentally somebody might compile a list of the world conferences that have been held, say since the war, and the results achieved by them. Some of them have been very helpful, many of them fruitless but surely there is no lack of conferences, congresses and the like.

The truth is that the affairs of the world do not lend themselves very readily to overhead management, chiefly because the people of the world do not readily accept management from above and have the greatest possible difficulty in agreeing with each other upon policies of democratic management. Here is the fundamental problem in all efforts to improve the management of world affairs.

It is agreed among economists that the modern industrial organization depends for efficiency upon a balanced production of all the goods and services that enter into trade. Although goods are sold for money, what is really accomplished is an exchange of services. The purchasing power of each person is in his own services, which he must sell in order himself to be a buyer. If it were possible to distribute the working forces in all the industries and employments with such precision that the various products and services would be offered on the markets just in the varieties and quantities wanted, it is true that production might be increased indefinitely and the markets would be cleared and nothing left over. Every possessor of surplus goods has wants unsatisfied. It is all a problem of making the exchanges.

Here is the basis of the dream of socialism or communism, of having some overhead authority manage the whole industrial system, assign each person to the work selected for him and apportion to him his allotted share of the results. It contemplates that the people shall be either educated up to a voluntary acceptance of the plan or that it shall be established by force. The people as yet are a long way from voluntary acceptance and no system of forced labor ever yet has been an efficient system or is likely to be.

The existing regime is one of voluntary organization controlled by the price system. The individual is free to find his own place in the organization, but if too many attempt to render the same service the compensation falls and some of them look for something else to do. The system is kept in a fair state of balance by this automatic regulation.

Complications occur, in that new commodities or services are constantly being offered, methods of production are changing, prices are always changing, and the endless variety of products and services are wanted in constantly changing proportions. The theory that there can be no overproduction so long as all products are offered in right proportions to each other is a perfectly sound theory as the economists state it, as a guide to production, but obviously cannot be fully realized in a free society. It shows the folly of deliberate or heedless production of any commodity in excess of market demands and points to the condition under which the highest state of welfare for the population may be obtained, to-wit, by intelligent cooperation and well-balanced production.

It may be thought that as a means of regulating the plans and activities of hundreds of millions of people scattered over the globe, whose products are being offered in competition and for trade, this idea of balanced production is impracticable or absurd, but in fact so effective are the workings of a free price system, based on the common gold standard, that the results are marvelously good, considering the uncertainties of production, the interference of governments, and the changes resulting from development in the industries. Just now it is agreed that the world is badly disorganized and out of balance, but the maladjustments probably do not affect the volume of production to as much as 10 per cent of the normal total. So much for the efficiency of voluntary trade, hampered though it is in many ways.

The International Chamber of Commerce at a recent meeting in Paris took up consideration of the matter of increase in the capacity of production that has outstripped the increase of population because of the industrial development due to the war, mass production, and the desire of nations to become economically and industrially self-supporting. It declares in resolutions adopted that in Russia, China and India 900 millions of people are not only improving their standard of living, but are actually consuming less per head than before the war. The resolution requests governments to take all possible measures to promote the international exchange of goods; and requests the Bank of International Settlements and banks of issue to do everything in their power to avoid excessive accumulations of gold, to facilitate a supply of credit at moderate rates and the free circulation of capital.

Sugar presents a complicated situation. Wheat is another disturbing factor. Coffee has been accumulated in large stocks. The fall in price of silver has affected mining countries unfavorably. Textiles are in a state of confusion.

The conclusion reached is that no governmental system, industrial system or monetary system is responsible. The law of supply and demand, working through the price system, is the only universally acknowledged authority. It is automatic, impartial, not the creation of any one country. Its simple, unchanging rule is that since products pay for products in trade, production and prices must be kept in balanced relations. When that rule is violated, trade slows down. Economic forces are always working to maintain or restore equilibrium.

TRIO OF BANDITS ROBS BANK OF $7,000 IN CASH

BANK OF GREINA, NEB., IS VICTIM NEAR THE NOON HOUR

SCOOP UP MONEY, LOCK EMPLOYEES IN VAULT, SPEED AWAY IN THEIR CAR

Greina, Neb., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Two robbers, aided by a third who served as a chauffeur for them in their escape, entered the bank of Greina here this morning at 11 o'clock and escaped with approximately $7,000 in cash. After scooping up the money from the counters in the bank, the two robbers locked two bank employees and two others in the vault. The four were released after a short time.

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 14.—The Waynesville National Bank in Warren county was held up by three bandits today, who obtained about $400 and escaped in a black Ford sedan.

Spencer, Okla., Aug. 14.—Cashier E. F. Pool of the State Bank of Spencer was wounded in the right arm today by two bandits who robbed the bank of between $700 and $1,000 and escaped.

Twelve Mile, Ind., Aug. 14.—Two unmasked bandits entered the Twelve Mile State Bank today, held up O. H. Pickering, cashier, and Miss Bernice Brower, assistant cashier, and escaped in a blue sedan with between $1,500 and $2,000. The car was headed west, witnesses said.

Twelve Mile is located 12 miles northwest of Logansport.

IN PENITENTIARY TWO DAYS AFTER ROBBING BANK

OSA SLEDGE AND GEORGE TAYLOR FACE LONG TERMS AT BISMARCK, N. D.

VIGILANTES OF NORTH DAKOTA AND MINNESOTA CAPTURED THE NEGRO PAIR

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Just two days after they held up the Lambs' National Bank at Michigan, N. D., Osa Sledge, Minneapolis, and George Taylor, Waukegan, Ill., today began long terms in the state penitentiary.

The men were arraigned at Lakota, the county seat of the territory in which the robbery occurred Tuesday morning. They pleaded guilty and then were taken to Grand Forks where Judge D. G. Swenson pronounced sentence. Sledge was given 20 years and Taylor 15 after their plea of guilty to charges of bank robbery.

Because the gun they used to hold up Assistant Cashier Steve Hofer was not loaded, the negroes received lesser terms than otherwise.

Capture of the pair came after vigilantes of North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota organized parties for their look-out. The men were captured near Northland, Minn., but managed to escape and were recaptured as they tried to cross the Red river back into North Dakota.

THREE SLAIN AS GANG WAR FLAMES IN ST. PAUL

one of the suspects in the famous St. Valentine's Day massacre, was killed late last night by rival gangsters who ambushed him and riddled his head and body with shotgun slugs.

Two gunmen, who had been hiding in a patch of high weeds, killed Vallo as he stepped from his automobile to enter a cafe in Niles Center, northern suburb.

Miss Vera Wallace, 24, who came here recently from Hot Springs, Ark., was entering the cafe with him after spending the evening riding about in his car. She was not wounded.

Police advanced a theory Vallo was slain because of "muscling in" activities in a gang war reported being waged between followers of George "Bugs" Moran and Alphonse "Scarface Al" Capone. Vallo, they said, had been a Capone man of late although previously associated with the old Genna gang. His murder was associated with reports Capone had driven Moran out of the north side and extended his control, originally confined to the south side, to include the entire city.

Overproduction or Underconsumption

THE National City Bank of New York publishes regular reviews of the business situation and that of August takes up many matters of interest, especially the section relating to overproduction or underconsumption. It is explained that the argument rages as to which of these conditions is responsible for the accumulation of apparently surplus stocks of many kinds of merchandise, and the fall of prices to levels that are agreed to be below production costs. It is conceded that maladjustment exists, but where lies the responsibility and what can be done about it?

Such a situation affords a great opportunity for reformers who have schemes for the fundamental reorganization of society, and who hope that discontent with unsatisfactory conditions will get them a hearing. Well meaning people send out vague appeals to the "leaders of business" to remedy the ills of the situation, lest some dire consequences befall them as a result of neglect of public duty. All of these leaders of business of course are involved in a situation so far beyond their control that they scarcely know how to manage their own affairs in it, to say nothing of joining in a round table conference for the purpose of setting the world to rights. Incidentally somebody might compile a list of the world conferences that have been held, say since the war, and the results achieved by them. Some of them have been very helpful, many of them fruitless but surely there is no lack of conferences, congresses and the like.

The truth is that the affairs of the world do not lend themselves very readily to overhead management, chiefly because the people of the world do not readily accept management from above and have the greatest possible difficulty in agreeing with each other upon policies of democratic management. Here is the fundamental problem in all efforts to improve the management of world affairs.

It is agreed among economists that the modern industrial organization depends for efficiency upon a balanced production of all the goods and services that enter into trade. Although goods are sold for money, what is really accomplished is an exchange of services. The purchasing power of each person is in his own services, which he must sell in order himself to be a buyer. If it were possible to distribute the working forces in all the industries and employments with such precision that the various products and services would be offered on the markets just in the varieties and quantities wanted, it is true that production might be increased indefinitely and the markets would be cleared and nothing left over. Every possessor of surplus goods has wants unsatisfied. It is all a problem of making the exchanges.

Here is the basis of the dream of socialism or communism, of having some overhead authority manage the whole industrial system, assign each person to the work selected for him and apportion to him his allotted share of the results. It contemplates that the people shall be either educated up to a voluntary acceptance of the plan or that it shall be established by force. The people as yet are a long way from voluntary acceptance and no system of forced labor ever yet has been an efficient system or is likely to be.

The existing regime is one of voluntary organization controlled by the price system. The individual is free to find his own place in the organization, but if too many attempt to render the same service the compensation falls and some of them look for something else to do. The system is kept in a fair state of balance by this automatic regulation.

Complications occur, in that new commodities or services are constantly being offered, methods of production are changing, prices are always changing, and the endless variety of products and services are wanted in constantly changing proportions. The theory that there can be no overproduction so long as all products are offered in right proportions to each other is a perfectly sound theory as the economists state it, as a guide to production, but obviously cannot be fully realized in a free society. It shows the folly of deliberate or heedless production of any commodity in excess of market demands and points to the condition under which the highest state of welfare for the population may be obtained, to-wit, by intelligent cooperation and well-balanced production.

It may be thought that as a means of regulating the plans and activities of hundreds of millions of people scattered over the globe, whose products are being offered in competition and for trade, this idea of balanced production is impracticable or absurd, but in fact so effective are the workings of a free price system, based on the common gold standard, that the results are marvelously good, considering the uncertainties of production, the interference of governments, and the changes resulting from development in the industries. Just now it is agreed that the world is badly disorganized and out of balance, but the maladjustments probably do not affect the volume of production to as much as 10 per cent of the normal total. So much for the efficiency of voluntary trade, hampered though it is in many ways.

The International Chamber of Commerce at a recent meeting in Paris took up consideration of the matter of increase in the capacity of production that has outstripped the increase of population because of the industrial development due to the war, mass production, and the desire of nations to become economically and industrially self-supporting. It declares in resolutions adopted that in Russia, China and India 900 millions of people are not only improving their standard of living, but are actually consuming less per head than before the war. The resolution requests governments to take all possible measures to promote the international exchange of goods; and requests the Bank of International Settlements and banks of issue to do everything in their power to avoid excessive accumulations of gold, to facilitate a supply of credit at moderate rates and the free circulation of capital.

Sugar presents a complicated situation. Wheat is another disturbing factor. Coffee has been accumulated in large stocks. The fall in price of silver has affected mining countries unfavorably. Textiles are in a state of confusion.

The conclusion reached is that no governmental system, industrial system or monetary system is responsible. The law of supply and demand, working through the price system, is the only universally acknowledged authority. It is automatic, impartial, not the creation of any one country. Its simple, unchanging rule is that since products pay for products in trade, production and prices must be kept in balanced relations. When that rule is violated, trade slows down. Economic forces are always working to maintain or restore equilibrium.

TRIO OF BANDITS
ROBS BANK OF
$7,000 IN CASH

BANK OF GRETNA, NEB., IS VICTIM NEAR THE NOON HOUR

SCOOP UP MONEY, LOCK EMPLOYEES IN VAULT, SPEED AWAY IN THEIR CAR

Gretna, Neb., Aug. 14.—(UP)—Two robbers, aided by a third who served as a chauffeur for them in their escape, entered the bank of Gretna here this morning at 11 o'clock and escaped with approximately $7,000 in cash. After scooping up the money from the counters in the bank, the two robbers locked two bank employees and two others in the vault. The four were released after a short time.

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 14.—The Waynesville National Bank in Warren county was held up by three bandits today, who obtained about $400 and escaped in a black Ford sedan.

Spencer, Okla., Aug. 14.—Cashier E. F. Pool of the State Bank of Spencer was wounded in the right arm today by two bandits who robbed the bank of between $700 and $1,000 and escaped.

Twelve Mile, Ind., Aug. 14.—Two unmasked bandits entered the Twelve Mile State Bank today, held up O. H. Pickering, cashier, and Miss Bernice Brower, assistant cashier, and escaped in a blue sedan with between $1,500 and $2,000. The car was headed west, witnesses said.

Twelve Mile is located 12 miles northwest of Logansport.

IN PENITENTIARY
TWO DAYS AFTER
ROBBING BANK

OSA SLEDGE AND GEORGE TAYLOR FACE LONG TERMS AT BISMARCK, N. D.

VIGILANTES OF NORTH DAKOTA AND MINNESOTA CAPTURED THE NEGRO PAIR

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 14.—(UP)—Just two days after they held up the Lambs' National Bank at Michigan, N. D., Osa Sledge, Minneapolis, and George Taylor, Waukegan, Ill., today began long terms in the state penitentiary.

The men were arraigned at Lakota, the county seat of the territory in which the robbery occurred Tuesday morning. They pleaded guilty and then were taken to Grand Forks where Judge D. G. Swenson pronounced sentence. Sledge was given 20 years and Taylor 15 after their plea of guilty to charges of bank robbery.

Because the gun they used to hold up Assistant Cashier Steve Hofer was not loaded, the negroes received lesser terms than otherwise.

Capture of the pair came after vigilantes of North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota organized parties for their look-out. The men were captured near Northland, Minn., but managed to escape and were recaptured as they tried to cross the Red river back into North Dakota.

one of the suspects in the famous St. Valentine's Day massacre, was killed late last night by rival gangsters who ambushed him and riddled his head and body with shotgun slugs.

Two gunmen, who had been hiding in a patch of high weeds, killed Vallo as he stepped from his automobile to enter a cafe in Niles Center, northern suburb.

Miss Vera Wallace, 24, who came here recently from Hot Springs, Ark., was entering the cafe with him after spending the evening riding about in his car. She was not wounded.

Police advanced a theory Vallo was slain because of "muscling in" activities in a gang war reported being waged between followers of George "Bugs" Moran and Alphonse "Scarface Al" Capone. Vallo, they said, had been a Capone man of late although previously associated with the old Genna gang. His murder was associated with reports Capone had driven Moran out of the north side and extended his control, originally confined to the south side, to include the entire city.

SHAMROCK V WEATHERS 4,200 MILE TRIP ACROSS OCEAN

WAS NEARLY MONTH ON THE
LONG VOYAGE

TODAY SHE LIES ALONGSIDE THAMES RIVER PIER AT

BELOW DECKS SHIP IS AS NEAT
AS THE PROVERBIAL PIN

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New London, Conn., Aug. 14.—Lost from her convey for days at a time on the storm-tossed Atlantic, beating up against adverse winds and riding out gales which would have taxed the seaworthiness of far stancher craft, the slender racing yacht Shamrock V, challenger for the America's cup, weathered a difficult 4,200-mile voyage and today was laid alongside a Thames river pier and stripped of her now superfluous ocean-going gear.

To look at the graceful green challenger, one would never imagine that she had been nearly a month on an ocean voyage, save for salt flecks where the seas had poured over her narrow, neatly trimmed decks. Below decks, where her commander, Captain Ted Hear, her navigator, William Paul, and the crew of 20 lived during those difficult days, Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht, upon arrival at New London late yesterday, was as neat as the proverbial new pin.

Colonel Duncan Neill, a veteran among distinguished British seamen, made the voyage in command of the three-masted power yacht, Erin, as Sir Thomas Lipton's personal representative. The Erin acted as a convey for the Shamrock V.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON CONFIDENT AS EVER

The following dispatch from Sir Thomas Lipton, the veteran Irish sportsman, expresses his confidence in Shamrock V, the racing yacht which will compete with the fastest United States craft for the America's cup.

By SIR THOMAS LIPTON
(Written for the United Press)
(Copyright, 1930, by United Press)

Aboard S. S. Leviathan, approaching New York, Aug. 14.—I am most hopeful that Shamrock V finally will win that mug which has been in America for 78 years, but if I fail I will not give up the quest.

On the contrary, I will prepare for another challenge.

The present Shamrock honestly is the best yacht I have ever had. I am delighted she arrived safely at New London today.

The Americans have always beaten me fairly and squarely but I hope to turn the tables with the best boat yet, and the best efforts of the crew.

That old mug has been in one place too long. I think a change of air would be good for its health.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—"I guess we've just about convinced everyone that Brooklyn is going to be in the pennant race right up to the finish. It's the old story. Every time we lose a couple of games the cry goes up that 'The Robins are cracking,' but when they start counting us out of the race the boys step out and show them the only cracking we know anything about is cracking the ball all over the lot."

Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins was speaking and he didn't care if all the world heard. He was in a particularly jovial mood, following his team's 15 to 5 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the second game of the current "Little World Series" to decide the National League leadership.

"The writers are wrong in saying that on paper the Robins don't rate as a first division club," said Robinson. "I have a real team and I really believe we'll win the pennant."

(By United Press)

Just how intense was the competition in the National League today when the three leading clubs resumed warfare on the western front may be gained by a glance at the standings of the pennant-mad trio. Here are the standings as the Chicago Cubs renewed their battle with the Brooklyn Robins and the New York Giants sought to make it two in a row over the Cincinnati Reds.

| Chicago  | 66 | 45 | .595 |
| Brooklyn | 67 | 46 | .593 |
| New York | 62 | 47 | .569 |

Brooklyn moved into a virtual tie for the lead Wednesday when they smothered the Cubs under a barrage of base hits, 18 in all, to win 15 to 5. The Robins got their runs in bunches, five coming in the third inning, three in the eighth and six in the ninth.

After they had scored two runs to tie the score in the ninth, the Giants went on to get two more in the tenth to defeat the Reds, 7 to 6. Freddie Lindstrom's home run with Critz on base accounted for the winning tallies. Remy Kremer scored his fifteenth victory of the season as the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Phillies, 8 to 4.

Boston and St. Louis were rained out.

The Philadelphia Athletics continued their merry way toward another American League pennant by making it three straight over the Cleveland Indians, 7-2.

Although outfit 14 to 11, the Washington Senators managed to turn back the White Sox, 7 to 4.

Eight pitchers saw service as the New York Yankees defeated the Detroit Tigers, 10 to 6.

Goose Goslin drove in four runs with a homer and two singles as the St. Louis Browns whipped the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 2.

Divided Guilt Between Speaker and Listener

William W. Sewell, ranch manager in the West for the late President Roosevelt, and his guide on many a hunting trip in Maine, was the source of an interesting anecdote in New England in 1901.

The President, standing on the portico roof of the old Bangor house, in Bangor, Maine, called out: "Has anyone seen old Bill Sewell of Island Falls? If he's in the crowd, bring him up."

And Bill was brought up, while notables from all parts of New England were thrust aside.

"Bill, I'm glad to see you," greeted Teddy. "But I never expected a smart fellow like you would be wasting time listening to political speeches."

"And I never figured a smart fellow like you would waste time making 'em," grinned Bill as the two shook hands.

CLAIMS SHARKEY AND CARNERA TO FIGHT AT CHICAGO

New York, Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Mique Malloy of Chicago claimed today Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, had agreed verbally to terms for the Boston heavyweight to meet Primo Carnera, Italian giant, at Chicago September 29.

Malloy said Buckley would sign a contract for the bout, which may be held at Soldiers' field, scene of the second Dempsey-Tunney bout, as soon as he deposited $100,000 in the bank to Sharkey's credit.

"I can raise the money in ten minutes," said Malloy. "The fight is as good as on."

SPORTING the colors of the Los Angeles A. C., both Frank Wykoff, sprint marvel, and the high-jumping "Jim" Stewart, of the University of Southern California, are sure to stand out among the many great athletes who will contend for laurels in the annual National A. A. U. championships to be held at Pittsburgh next week. Only something entirely unforeseen can keep Wykoff or Stewart out of this competition.

Because some expect that Wykoff is primed to clip another tenth off his world's record "century" of 9.4-10 there will be added interest to that 100-yard dash at Pittsburgh. At this writing, the entries for that event are far from complete but the committee expects at least five other of the nation's fastest sprinters will force Wykoff to do his fastest.

Of course, conservative experts believe that "it will be years" before the hundred is done in even 9.2-10, let alone the dreamed-of 9.2-10 or the incredible 9 flat.

However, Southern California's coach, Dick Templeton, thinks Wykoff will do it in 9.2-10 but he is not specific as to when that is liable to occur.

Stewart's best mark for the high jump is 6 foot, 5 1/4 inches. He is making serious efforts to achieve a world's record (better 6-8 1/4) in that specialty.

American sport bugs are hoping that both Wykoff and Stewart will be on the United States team which will meet the British Empire's best in a duel meet at Chicago, Aug. 27-28, two days after the A. A. U. event ends. Uncle Sam will need his best (and he's got much talent) in the hundred and the high jump, for John Bull also has several of the world's best in that dash and the tall leap, too.

The Los Angeles A. A. looms large for club honors at Pittsburgh with its collegiate Trojans working like their historic namesakes to win at least two events on the A. A. U. program.

first threesome to tee off at 8:30 tomorrow morning.

A half hour later, Tommy Armour, Ed Dudley and Jack Hendry, St. Paul, will start their play. At 9:15, Johnny Farrell, Charles Lacey, young British professional playing Pine Valley club, New Jersey, and Ernest, Penfold, Minneapolis, will tee off. Gene Sarazen, Long Island pro, Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Willie Kidd, Interlachen club, Minneapolis, will commence their round at 9:40.

Horton Smith, Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich., and By Chamberlain, St. Paul, start at 10 o'clock. Johnny Goodman, Omaha, Abe Espinosa, Chicago, and Ralph Kingsrud, Fargo, tee off at 10:40. The threesome which undoubtedly will attract a large group of Twin City followers is that of Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, St. Paul, national amateur champion, Pat Sawyer, 17-year-old high school student who won the Minnesota state amateur championship two weeks ago against all comers and George M. Smith, Chicago. They will tee off at 10:05.

At noon, Walter Hagen, Detroit, Frank Walh, Chicago, and Art Tverra Minneapolis, will begin their matches. The final group is scheduled to leave the first tee at 10:20. The order will be reversed on Saturday, the first golfers being the last to start.

Saturday night the best 64 scorers and ties will be paired for a final 35 holes on Sunday.

Ray Cooper said, "give me 282 and I'll take the money." Horton Smith, Ed Dudley and Charles Lacey all predicted that 284 would be good enough to take the first place money. Par golf for the 72 holes is 288.

Carthage in Mythology

Tradition has it that the actual founder of Carthage was Elissa, a king's daughter, who took the name Dido, which meant refuge. According to Virgil, Aeneas, escaping from burning Troy, stopped at Carthage on his way to Italy, where he was to found the line of Romulus. Dido, according to the poet, fell in love with Aeneas, and when he sailed away he saw the smoke from the funeral pyre in which she burned herself.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Final practice rounds and finishing touches today occupied golfers entered in the St. Paul $10,000 open golf tournament.

On Friday, they will tee off for the first 18 holes of a 72 hole competition which will decide which of the some 140 entries will obtain the first prize money of $2,500.

Tommy Armour, Detroit professional, and Walter Hagen, who arrived here by automobile from the east, attracted attention today as they shot their first rounds on the course. They were the last of the groups of renowned professionals who have tested their skill and clubs against the Keller course this week.

The course record of 68, four under par, has been equalled twice during the three days of competition this week. Johnny Dawson, Chicago, and Gene Sarazen, Long Island, were the lucky golfers. Leonard Mattson, host professional, held the mark last year.

Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, made the 18 holes in 69 yesterday for the second best score of the day. Mattson, Horton Smith, young New York professional who rose to fame from Joplin, Mo., and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., made two under par with cards of 70 in their yesterday's rounds.

Pairings announced today showed that Otto Hackbarth, Cincinnati, Eddie Hiser, Blue Island, Ill., and Bill Harrett, Minneapolis, would be the Toledo, Aug. 14.—A flying catch by George Knohte, Blues shortstop, kept Toledo from scoring the tying run in the ninth inning yesterday, and Kansas City won the third game of the series, 5 to 4.

Louisville, Aug. 14.—Minneapolis held a two-out-of-three lead over the league-leading Louisville Colonels today by virtue of yesterday's 5 to 3 victory.

Columbus, Aug. 14.—Overcoming a nine-run lead obtained early in the game, Columbus took an 18 to 11 victory over Milwaukee here yesterday.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Scoring five runs in the first two innings, Indianapolis was able to hold their lead yesterday and took the third game of the series from St. Paul, 8 to 4.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New London, Conn., Aug. 14.—Lost from her convey for days at a time on the storm-tossed Atlantic, beating up against adverse winds and riding out gales which would have taxed the seaworthiness of far stancher craft, the slender racing yacht Shamrock V, challenger for the America's cup, weathered a difficult 4,200-mile voyage and today was laid alongside a Thames river pier and stripped of her now superfluous ocean-going gear.

To look at the graceful green challenger, one would never imagine that she had been nearly a month on an ocean voyage, save for salt flecks where the seas had poured over her narrow, neatly trimmed decks. Below decks, where her commander, Captain Ted Heard, her navigator, William Paul, and the crew of 20 lived during those difficult days, Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht, upon arrival at New London late yesterday, was as neat as the proverbial new pin.

Colonel Duncan Neill, a veteran among distinguished British seamen, made the voyage in command of the three-masted power yacht, Erin, as Sir Thomas Lipton's personal representative. The Erin acted as a convey for the Shamrock V.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON CONFIDENT AS EVER

The following dispatch from Sir Thomas Lipton, the veteran Irish sportsman, expresses his confidence in Shamrock V, the racing yacht which will compete with the fastest United States craft for the America's cup.

By SIR THOMAS LIPTON
(Written for the United Press)
(Copyright, 1930, by United Press)

Aboard S. S. Leviathan, approaching New York, Aug. 14.—I am most hopeful that Shamrock the V finally will win that mug which has been in America for 79 years, but if I fail I will not give up the quest.

On the contrary, I will prepare for another challenge.

The present Shamrock honestly is the best yacht I have ever had. I am delighted she arrived safely at New London today.

The Americans have always beaten me fairly and squarely but I hope to turn the tables with the best boat yet, and the best efforts of the crew.

That old mug has been in one place too long. I think a change of air would be good for its health.

| Brooklyn | 67 | 46 | .593 |
| New York | 62 | 47 | .569 |

Brooklyn moved into a virtual tie for the lead Wednesday when they smothered the Cubs under a barrage of base hits, 18 in all, to win 15 to 5. The Robins got their runs in bunches, five coming in the third inning, three in the eighth and six in the ninth.

After they had scored two runs to tie the score in the ninth, the Giants went on to get two more in the tenth to defeat the Reds, 7 to 6. Freddie Lindstrom's home run with Critz on base accounted for the winning tally.

Remy Kremer scored his fifteenth victory of the season as the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Phillies, 8 to 4. Boston and St. Louis were rained out.

The Philadelphia Athletics continued their merry way toward another American League pennant by making it three straight over the Cleveland Indians, 7-2.

Although out 14 to 11, the Washington Senators managed to turn back the White Sox, 7 to 4.

Eight pitchers saw service as the New York Yankees defeated the Detroit Tigers, 10 to 6.

Goose Goslin drove in four runs with a homer and two singles as the St. Louis Browns whipped the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 2.

Divided Guilt Between Speaker and Listener

William W. Sewell, ranch manager in the West for the late President Roosevelt, and his guide on many a hunting trip in Maine, was the source of an interesting anecdote in New England in 1901.

The President, standing on the porch roof of the old Bangor house, in Bangor, Maine, called out: "Has anyone seen old Bill Sewell of Island Falls? If he's in the crowd, bring him up."

And Bill was brought up, while notables from all parts of New England were thrust aside.

"Bill, I'm glad to see you," greeted Teddy. "But I never expected a smart fellow like you would be wasting time listening to political speeches."

"And I never figured a smart fellow like you would waste time making 'em," grinned Bill as the two shook hands.

CLAIMS SHARKEY AND CARNERA TO FIGHT AT CHICAGO

New York, Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Miguel Malloy of Chicago claimed today Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, had agreed verbally to terms for the Boston heavyweight to meet Primo Carnera, Italian giant, at Chicago September 29. Malloy said Buckley would sign a contract for the bout, which may be held at Soldiers' field, scene of the second Dempsey-Tunney bout, as soon as he deposited $100,000 in the bank to Sharkey's credit.

"I can raise the money in ten minutes," said Malloy, "the fight is as good as on."

FINAL PRACTICE ROUNDS ON THE KELLER COURSE

ON FRIDAY THEY TEE OFF FOR FIRST 18 HOLES OF 72 HOLE COMPETITION

140 ENTRIES HAVE EYES ON FIRST PRIZE MONEY
OF $2,500

By HILLIER KRIEGHBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 14.—(U.P.)—Final practice rounds and finishing touches today occupied golfers entered in the St. Paul $10,000 open golf tournament.

On Friday, they will tee off for the first 18 holes of a 72 hole competition which will decide which of the some 140 entries will obtain the first prize money of $2,500.

Tommy Armour, Detroit professional, and Walter Hagen, who arrived here by automobile from the east, attracted attention today as they shot their first rounds on the course. They were the last of the groups of renowned professionals who have tested their skill and clubs against the Keller course this week.

The course record of 68, four under par, has been equalled twice during the three days of competition this week. Johnny Dawson, Chicago, and Gene Sarazen, Long Island, were the lucky golfers. Leonard Mattson, host professional, held the mark last year.

Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, made the 18 holes in 69 yesterday for the second best score of the day. Mattson, Horton Smith, young New York professional who rose to fame from Joplin, Mo., and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., made two under par with cards of 70 in their yesterday's rounds.

Pairings announced today showed that Otto Hackbarth, Cincinnati, Eddie Hiser, Blue Island, Ill., and Bill Harrett, Minneapolis, would be the first threesome to tee off at 8:30 tomorrow morning.

A half hour later, Tommy Armour, Ed Dudley and Jack Hendry, St. Paul, will start their play. At 9:15, Johnny Farrell, Charles Lacey, young British professional playing Pine Valley club, New Jersey, and Ernest Penfold, Minneapolis, will tee off. Gene Sarazen, Long Island pro, Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Willie Kidd, Interlachen club, Minneapolis, will commence their round at 9:40.

Horton Smith, Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich., and By Chamberlain, St. Paul, start at 10 o'clock. Johnny Goodman, Omaha, Abe Espinosa, Chicago, and Ralph Kingsrud, Fargo, tee off at 10:40. The threesome which undoubtedly will attract a large group of Twin City followers is that of Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, St. Paul, national amateur champion, Pat Sawyer, 17-year-old high school student who won the Minnesota state amateur championship two weeks ago against all comers and George M. Smith, Chicago. They will tee off at 10:05.

At noon, Walter Hagen, Detroit, Frank Walh, Chicago, and Art Tverra, Minneapolis, will begin their matches. The final group is scheduled to leave the first tee at 10:20. The order will be reversed on Saturday, the first golfers being the last to start.

Saturday night the best 64 scorers and ties will be paired for a final 36 holes on Sunday.

Ray Cooper said, "give me 282 and I'll take the money." Horton Smith, Ed Dudley and Charles Lacey all predicted that 284 would be good enough to take the first place money. Par golf for the 72 holes is 288.

Carthage in Mythology

Tradition has it that the actual founder of Carthage was Elassa, a king's daughter, who took the name Dido, which meant refuge. According to Virgil, Aeneas, escaping from burning Troy, stopped at Carthage on his way to Italy, where he was to found the line of Romulus. Dido, according to the poet, fell in love with Aeneas, and when he sailed away he saw the smoke from the funeral pyre in which she burned herself.

American Association Tabs

Toledo, Aug. 14.—A flying catch by George Knothe, Blues shortstop, kept Toledo from scoring the tying run in the ninth inning yesterday, and Kansas City won the third game of the series, 5 to 4.

Louisville, Aug. 14.—Minneapolis held a two-out-of-three lead over the league-leading Louisville Colonels today by virtue of yesterday's 5 to 3 victory.

Columbus, Aug. 14.—Overcoming a nine-run lead obtained early in the game, Columbus took an 18 to 11 victory over Milwaukee here yesterday.

Indianapolis, Aug. 14.—Scoring five runs in the first two innings, Indianapolis was able to hold their lead yesterday and took the third game of the series from St. Paul, 8 to 4.

Cupboard Evolution

The modern cupboards were evolved from original "bordes" arranged to hold drinking cups. Gradually the drawers were added and then the additional shelves for convenience in serving in the dining room.

SPORTING the colors of the Los Angeles A. C., both Frank Wykoff, sprint marvel, and the high-jumping "Jim" Stewart, of the University of Southern California, are sure to stand out among the many great athletes who will contend for laurels in the annual National A. A. U. championships to be held at Pittsburgh next week. Only something entirely unforeseen can keep Wykoff or Stewart out of this competition.

Because some expect that Wykoff is primed to clip another tenth off his world's record "century" of 9.4-10 there will be added interest to that 100-yard dash at Pittsburgh. At this writing, the entries for that event are far from complete but the committee expects at least five other of the nation's fastest sprinters will force Wykoff to do his fastest.

Of course, conservative experts believe that "it will be years" before the hundred is done in even 9.2-10, let alone the dreamed-of 9.2-10 or the incredible 9 flat. However, Southern California's coach, Dick Templeton, thinks Wykoff will do it in 9.2-10 but he is not specific as to when that is liable to occur.

Stewart's best mark for the high jump is 6 foot, 5 1/4 inches. He is making serious efforts to achieve a world's record (better 6-8 1/4) in that specialty.

American sport bugs are hoping that both Wykoff and Stewart will be on the United States team which will meet the British Empire's best in a dual meet at Chicago, Aug. 27-28, two days after the A. A. U. event ends. Uncle Sam will need his best (and he's got much talent) in the hundred and the high jump, for John Bull also has several of the world's best in that dash and the tall leap, too.

The Los Angeles A. A. looms large for club honors at Pittsburgh with its collegiate Trojans working like their historic namesakes to win at least two events on the A. A. U. program.

BRAVE WEATHER FOR CLUB DINNER

Country Club Attractively Decorated
With Gladioli and Other
Garden Flowers

In spite of the gloomy and threatening weather last Tuesday evening, a good number were present for the Brainerd Country club dinner, about 70 being served. An inviting and cheery atmosphere was lent to the club house with the lights being turned on and the tables attractively decorated with gladioli and other garden flowers.

Several of the members motored out in the afternoon to enjoy golf, and a number remained after the dinner to play.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. F. E. Stout, chairman, and Mesdames James Alderman, R. A. Beise, J. F. Casey, F. A. Farrar, R. L. Geist, W. H. Gemmell and M. W. Richards.

Americans as a Nation Laughs and Talks?

The American laugh is most impressive. Laughing is a very important emotional expression and one learns a lot about character through careful observation of the way people laugh. Carl G. Jung, writes in the Forum.

There are some folk who suffer from a crippled laughter. It is just painful to see them laugh, and the sound of that shrill, evil, compressed rattle almost makes you sick. America as a nation can laugh. This means a lot; it means that there is still childlikeness, a soundness of emotion, an immediate rapport with fellow beings.

This laughter goes hand in hand with a remarkable vivacity and great ease of expression. Americans are great talkers. Gossip even extends into monstrously big newspapers, so that the talking goes on even when you are reading.

The style of "good" American writing is a talking style. When it is not too flat, it is just as refreshing and exhilarating to us Europeans as your laughter. But often, alas, it is just chattering—the noise of the big ant heap.

Cynicism Confuted by Man's Belief and Hopes

It seems the fashion now to find a cynical motive at the root of every good deed, to reduce all nobler emotions and impulses to some unsavory form of sex complex. I have even heard those who are proud of their "sophistication" explain mother love as a form of sex gratification! These things are the fashion now. But there are no fashions in human beings. Beneath the changing mannerisms and garments on the different generations, men and women are what they always have been. They want the same things. They believe in the same things.

They believe that virtue is always rewarded and evil is always punished. Hokum? Yes, but they are wiser than the critics. They believe these things because these things are true. Goodness may not be rewarded by money, evil may not be punished by hanging. But there are rewards and punishments that cannot be seen by the naked eye.—Cecil B. De Mille in Motion Picture Classic.

Faith in a Few Things Best
Channing said truly, "No one is so tempted to believe too little as the person who began by believing too much." Or, rather, too many things, trying to see in detail the fashion of things to be, making an Atlas of Eternity. In reaction against what it deems the over-belief of other days, our generation has fallen into an under-belief, far below what is its right. If our fathers asked how good is the most that we can mean by the word "God," their sons ask how real is the least we can mean by it. What we need is not faith in more things, but more faith in a few profound things which make us men, whence men in all ages have derived inward sustaining hope. For we are moved most deeply not by many things we try to believe, but by the few things we cannot persuade ourselves to disbelieve.—The Churchman.

ASKS FOR LARGER FLOW FROM LAKE MICHIGAN

Washington, Aug. 14.—(UP)—Governor Emmerson of Illinois appealed to Secretary of War Hurley today for permission to increase the flow of water from Lake Michigan into the Chicago sanitary canal for a period of a week or ten days as an emergency measure.

Hurley replied he would inquire into the legal aspects of the question. He requested legal and engineering advisors to submit the opinions on the point, which were expected within 24 hours.

Emmerson told the secretary the sewage problem in Chicago had become very serious because the drought has nearly dried up the water flowing in the sanitary canal.

RAIN ONLY HOPE TO STOP FIRES

2,000 FIRE FIGHTERS RETREAT-
ING BEFORE FLAMES IN
UPPER MICHIGAN

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 14.—(UP)—Fire fighting crews which aggregated nearly 2,000 men were in steady retreat today before flames which cracked unchecked through hundreds of acres of timber and brush lands in upper Michigan.

Rain was the only hope of stopping the fires, and rangers believed rising winds might result in a major disaster. As quickly as the flames were beaten out in one area, new fires sprang up. Scores of backwoods families were driven from their homes, but fires which threatened several towns, including Menominee county and fire fighters were handicapped by lack of water.

A tract of virgin hardwood timber was destroyed near Newberry, Mich., where a crew of 125 men fought the flames for 24 hours on a two-mile front.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 14.—More than 20 fires were reported burning today in the Cascade national forest above Oakridge. In Washington several serious fires in the Finney creek section had been checked.

Faith in a Few Things Best

Channing said truly, "No one is so tempted to believe too little as the person who began by believing too much." Or, rather, too many things, trying to see in detail the fashion of things to be, making an Atlas of Eternity. In reaction against what it deems the over-belief of other days, our generation has fallen into an under-belief, far below what is its right. If our fathers asked how good is the most that we can mean by the word "God," their sons ask how real is the least we can mean by it. What we need is not faith in more things, but more faith in a few profound things which make us men, whence men in all ages have derived inward sustaining hope. For we are moved most deeply not by many things we try to believe, but by the few things we cannot persuade ourselves to disbelieve.—The Churchman.

ASKS FOR LARGER FLOW FROM LAKE MICHIGAN

Washington, Aug. 14.—(UP)—Governor Emmerson of Illinois appealed to Secretary of War Hurley today for permission to increase the flow of water from Lake Michigan into the Chicago sanitary canal for a period of a week or ten days as an emergency measure.

Hurley replied he would inquire into the legal aspects of the question.

He requested legal and engineering advisors to submit the opinions on the point, which were expected within 24 hours.

Emmerson told the secretary the sewage problem in Chicago had become very serious because the drought has nearly dried up the water flowing in the sanitary canal.

RAIN ONLY HOPE TO STOP FIRES

2,000 FIRE FIGHTERS RETREAT-
ING BEFORE FLAMES IN
UPPER MICHIGAN

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 14.—(UP)—Fire fighting crews which aggregated nearly 2,000 men were in steady retreat today before flames which cracked unchecked through hundreds of acres of timber and brush lands in upper Michigan.

Rain was the only hope of stopping the fires, and rangers believed rising winds might result in a major disaster. As quickly as the flames were beaten out in one area, new fires sprang up.

Scores of backwoods families were driven from their homes, but fires which threatened several towns, including Menominee county and fire fighters were handicapped by lack of water.

A tract of virgin hardwood timber was destroyed near Newberg, Mich., where a crew of 125 men fought the flames for 24 hours on a two-mile front.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 14.—More than 20 fires were reported burning today in the Cascade national forest above Oakridge. In Washington several serious fires in the Finney creek section had been checked.

QUESTION JUVENILES IN PETTY ROBBERIES

Six Boys Taken by City Authorities;
Two Confess Robberies
Here

ONE STEALS WRIST WATCH

Barrows Boy Admits Taking Robe,
Three of His Companions
Under Suspicion

Six boys of juvenile age were being questioned today by city authorities relative to petty thieving in the city of Brainerd.

Two boys had confessed thefts. The one took police this morning to his home at Barrows where a robe taken from the car of George Lucas, fire truck driver, was recovered. The other, only 12 years old, broke down and confessed to the theft of a girl's wrist watch from behind the counter in the Breneman Bakery, South Sixth street, Tuesday evening.

Four of the boys live in Barrows, the other two in Brainerd.

The boys from the neighboring town are reported to have formed a "partnership" in an old car.

After investigation the boys will be turned over to the juvenile court.

Robert S. Paterson Soliciting Memberships in Brainerd, Distributes Literature

Robert S. Paterson, operating from the Kansas City Division, is in the city enlisting memberships in the National Constitutional Liberty League of America for the repeal or modification of the 18th Amendment, Inc.

"The organization, now operating in its third year, has as its aim," said Mr. Paterson, "obtaining government controlled sale of liquor."

Of national extent, memberships when sold at $1 each are undoubtedly producing quite a fund for the association's use in its fight against the 18th amendment. Mr. Paterson had newspaper clippings showing there were 200,000 members in Missouri, 50,000 in Eastern Kansas, 85,000 in Iowa and nearly 200,000 in Wisconsin. This would make over a half a million dollars raised in four states to attack an amendment which is still on the statute books.

Solicitors are at work in Brainerd, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Cloud and Mankato, said Mr. Paterson.

AITKIN APPRECIATES BAND'S CONCERT THERE

Henry Krause, secretary of the Brainerd Municipal band, received the following letter today in which Louis Hallam, attorney at Aitkin, expressed thanks for the appearance of the Brainerd band there last Friday:

"The folks of Aitkin and vicinity have been very profuse in appreciation of your fine concert here last Friday and I thought it would be proper to tell you about it.

"There is no way of telling how many people came in to hear you but those who were out on the streets say that it was a very large crowd. I am very glad we had such a fine evening and a good, big appreciative crowd. A band can always do better when it has an appreciative audience. I want to thank each and every one of you, both for the music and for the opportunity to be with you again. I trust we may have your fine band here many times in the future. With kindest regards and best wishes."

TIME OF LEAVING FOR WINNER FIXED

Miss Arlene Hagberg, winner of the Dispatch-Public theatre popularity contest, sponsored here recently received today the following information from R. F. Emig, manager of the Paramount theatre relative to her trip to Alaska which she is taking as the guest of the Brainerd Dispatch and Public theatres:

"Please be advised that you are scheduled to leave Brainerd at 10:58 a. m. Sunday, August 17, via the Northern Pacific. You will arrive at Staples at 11:50 a. m. where you will change trains, boarding the North Coast Limited which leaves Staples at 12:12 p. m. Our party on the North Coast Limited will be on the lookout for you at Staples.

"We will have the necessary tickets ready for you here Friday."

Rev. Fred Errington, of Moorhead, honorary life member of the Brainerd club spoke of the advantages of living in the Brainerd area, stressing the lake country as being ideal surroundings for a home. He said that Brainerd and other localities here were receiving favorable publicity from the many tourists visiting here annually.

The other speaker of the evening was Dr. Kelly of Aitkin, deputy district governor of Lions who emphasized the value of Lionism to the community.

Community singing was also enjoyed.

"Whoopie Day" Plans Perfected, Nearly 2,000 Attend

GALA EVENT FOR BOYS AND GIRLS SATURDAY READY

PROGRAM TO START AT 1:15 P. M. AT LUM PARK WITH BAND LEADING PARADE

EVERYTHING FURNISHED FREE; SPORT EVENTS OF ALL KINDS; GOODIES FOR ALL

It remains now only for nice weather to insure a happy day for the boys and girls picnic at Lum Park Saturday afternoon.

Everything else has been taken care of and could the Park Board and its willing cooperatives regulate the weather they would do so.

Anything to please the kiddies. This has been the thought in mind of the committees planning "Whoopie Day." Each individual member of the committees has worked faithfully preparing the event. Now everything is in readiness.

The committee met again last evening and went over plans, cleaned up anything left undone.

An indication of how popular the picnic and sports day will be is seen in the figures of registrations. In the two days of registrations a total of 1938 boys and girls went to the various places in their respective wards to register. They registered because they wished to join in with the spirit of cooperation shown by the committee, they wished to tell the people of Brainerd that they would like a day set aside for them once in a year when they can enjoy themselves to their heart's content, they came to register in order to receive cards that will entitle them to participate in the day's events and receive the goodies offered.

The third ward holds the record for the largest number of registrations. Boys and girls in that ward in the number of 625 registered. The first and fifth wards combined for a total of 515, the second ward, 308, and the fourth ward, 490.

Parents Welcomed
Parents will be welcomed at the park during the afternoon. Although the day will be primarily devoted to boys and girls, adults will be gladly received. They will be called upon to assist in the program and to supervise the play of their children.

Program Starts at 1:15 P. M.
The "Whoopie Day" program will start at 1:15 p. m. sharp. It will be necessary to get underway at the appointed time to permit all events to be run off before 6 p. m.

The big day will start with a gala parade with the Legion Auxiliary band playing. Every known costume will be represented while many comical ones will be seen. Prizes will be given the best.

After the parade there will be refreshments served at the ladies bath house. After that there will be races on land for boys and girls, these to be in charge of Earl R. Berg, water safety director at the park. Then there will be the pie eating contest for boys and girls when 50 blueberry pies will be consumed and many faces will be covered with the berry coloring. Novelty races include the sack race, three legged race and wheelbarrow race will then be run off to be followed by more refreshments. A tug of war is then scheduled, next there will be a ball throwing contest, then group singing, refreshments and watersports. And don't forget, there's to be a greased pig contest when boys will chase a greased pig all over the lot. It's to be the grandest fun.

In the sport events ribbons will be given for the winner of first, second and third.

The races will include:

Land Events

Girls: 6 to 10 years, 10 to 14 years, 14 to 16 years.

Boys: 6 to 10 years, 10 to 14 years, 14 to 16 years.

Water Events

Girls: 6 to 14 years, 20 yards; 14 to 16 years, 40 yards; fancy diving.

Boys: 6 to 14 years, 20 yards; 14 to 16 years, 40 yards; fancy diving.

It would be well for boys and girls to study the program carefully to acquaint themselves what they are in store for.

C. F. Kittinger, district representative of the Reid-Murdoch Co., announced today that the contribution of the company to the picnic in Teenie Weenie toffies was now on its way from Chicago.

A first aid camp will be in readiness to take care of any bruises. "Happy Days" and other popular songs will be sung. Prizes won will be awarded from the speakers program at the close of the program.

All Boy Scouts are requested to turn out in uniform.

Originated by Brewers

Chain stores are known as the multiple shop system. They came into existence at the end of the Nineteenth century. The first were the "died houses" of many brewing firms, which secured ownership of lease of beer houses and other licensed premises to have markets for their output.

Colonial Valances

The valance which was hung across the fireplace on Sunday in Colonial days was called a ruffled pawn. It was a short petticoat or valance, gathered full on a string and hung across the mantel in Dutch Colonial homes. When the week's cooking was finished, the fireplace was thus decorated for the Sabbath.

Girl Scout Home-Making Activities Stimulated by Aid of Mrs. Hoover

THE FIRST LITTLE HOUSE: Sixty-nine similar houses now thrive from coast-to-coast. (Above) Mrs. Herbert Hoover, formerly president of the Girl Scouts, now honorary president.

Little House in Capitol Originated Idea For Seventy Others

By Adele Entz

SEVENTY Girl Scout "Little Houses," in which Girl Scouts are trained in home-making activities, are now in operation in the United States. Starting with the National Girl Scout Little House in Washington, which has been one of the chief interests of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, now Honorary President of the Girl Scouts, the idea of building or buying such communal centers for local Girl Scout activities has spread from Coast to Coast.

Characterized by Mrs. Hoover as "the halfway house between the playhouse of childhood and the home every girl hopes to achieve some day," the Little House has made interesting history in the Girl Scout movement.

Herbert Hoover laid its cornerstone, when he was Secretary of Commerce and President of the Better Homes in America Foundation, the aim of which was to improve living conditions in our country. The foundation encouraged the building of model homes throughout the country, by various organizations or individuals.

In Washington, the building appropriately designed from the birthplace of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," attracted much widespread attention, when built by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

After its temporary purpose had been fulfilled, the Federation presented it to the Girl Scouts, through Mrs. Hoover, then their President.

Under Mrs. Hoover's direction, the Little House soon took on a distinct individuality. The Little House idea began to grow. Mrs. Hoover believed that here could be gratified the feminine urge, which begins way back in the mud-pie days, for domesticity, cooking, playing with dolls, for having one's own spot where mothers may be imitated in every household pursuit. The Little House provides an outlet for this instinct, and the Girl Scout program fosters it toward practical application.

In every community which has a Little House, and in the many which are erecting them, the building is recognized as a home-making center. The Girl Scouts themselves have opportunity to help plan the color schemes of the curtains and rugs and to make their collective contributions to its charm.

When it is possible to have grounds about the Little House, care and imagination may be expended on creating a delightful garden. Mrs. Hoover, ardent and enthusiastic supporter of Girl Scouting, takes particular pride and interest in the Washington Little House. She recently helped in the planting of a rock garden there, and has been among the donors of plants and flowers to the Girl Scout memory garden.

In 1925, while Dean Sarah Louise Arnold of Boston was President of the Girl Scout organization, a dinner was given at the Little House for ex-President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, at which Dean Arnold was also a guest, and Mr. James Storrow of Washington, then President of the Boy Scouts, and Herbert Hoover as President of the Better Homes. Washington Girl Scouts who had qualified for their cook's merit badge that year cooked the dinner and served it, under Mrs. Hoover's personal direction.

Since that time, the Little House in Washington has been visited by many notable persons, and has served as an example of hospitality for other Little Houses.

SIDEWALKS LAID TO MEMORIAL ARCHWAY

Floodlights Show Off Beauty of Entrance to Gregory Park at Sixth Street

Two cement sidewalks have been laid by the city to the entrances of the memorial arch at Gregory park from the Sixth street, Juniper location. The expense was met by an appropriation from the city council and the work was done under the direction of City Engineer R. T. Campbell.

The arch is beautifully set off by the two 300 watt flood lights which illuminate it for blocks. The lights were installed by the City Water and Light Department and the cost met by them.

The Brainerd Musical club is considering the planting of trees near the arch in honor of each past president of the club.

SPORT EVENTS OF ALL KINDS; GOODIES FOR ALL

It remains now only for nice weather to insure a happy day for the boys and girls picnic at Lum Park Saturday afternoon.

Everything else has been taken care of and could the Park Board and its willing cooperatives regulate the weather they would do so.

Anything to please the kiddies. This has been the thought in mind of the committees planning "Whoopee Day." Each individual member of the committees has worked faithfully preparing the event. Now everything is in readiness.

The committee met again last evening and went over plans, cleaned up anything left undone.

An indication of how popular the picnic and sports day will be is seen in the figures of registrations. In the two days of registrations a total of 1938 boys and girls went to the various places in their respective wards to register. They registered because they wished to join in with the spirit of cooperation shown by the committee, they wished to tell the people of Brainerd that they would like a day set aside for them once in a year when they can enjoy themselves to their heart's content, they came to register in order to receive cards that will entitle them to participate in the day's events and receive the goodies offered.

The third ward holds the record for the largest number of registrations. Boys and girls in that ward in the number of 625 registered. The first and fifth wards combined for a total of 515, the second ward, 308, and the fourth ward, 490.

Parents Welcomed
Parents will be welcomed at the park during the afternoon. Although the day will be primarily devoted to boys and girls, adults will be gladly received. They will be called upon to assist in the program and to supervise the play of their children.

Program Starts at 1:15 P. M.
The "Whoopee Day" program will start at 1:15 p. m. sharp. It will be necessary to get underway at the appointed time to permit all events to be run off before 6 p. m.

The big day will start with a gala parade with the Legion Auxiliary band playing. Every known costume will be represented while many comical ones will be seen. Prizes will be given to the best.

After the parade there will be refreshments served at the ladies bath house. After that there will be races on land for boys and girls, these to be in charge of Earl R. Berg, water safety director at the park. Then there will be the pie eating contest for boys and girls when 50 blueberry pies will be consumed and many faces will be covered with the berry coloring. Novelty races include the sack race, three legged race and wheelbarrow race will then be run off to be followed by more refreshments. A tug of war is then scheduled, next there will be a ball throwing contest, then group singing, refreshments and water sports. And don't forget, there's to be a greased pig contest when boys will chase a greased pig all over the lot. It's to be the grandest fun.

In the sport events ribbons will be given for the winner of first, second and third.

The races will include:

Land Events

Girls: 6 to 10 years, 10 to 14 years, 14 to 16 years.

Boys: 6 to 10 years, 10 to 14 years, 14 to 16 years.

Water Events

Girls: 6 to 14 years, 20 yards; 14 to 16 years, 40 yards; fancy diving.

Boys: 6 to 14 years, 20 yards; 14 to 16 years, 40 yards; fancy diving.

It would be well for boys and girls to study the program carefully to acquaint themselves what they are in store for.

C. F. Kittinger, district representative of the Reid-Murdoch Co., announced today that the contribution of the company to the picnic in Teenie Weenie toffies was now on its way from Chicago.

A first aid camp will be in readiness to take care of any bruises. "Happy Days" and other popular songs will be sung. Prizes won will be awarded from the speakers program at the close of the program.

All Boy Scouts are requested to turn out in uniform.

Chain stores are known as the multiple shop system. They came into existence at the end of the Nineteenth century. The first were the "tied houses" of many brewing firms, which secured ownership of lease of beer houses and other licensed premises to have markets for their output.

Gem of Indian Art

The exquisite mausoleum, the Taj Mahal, which was completed in 1650, consists of a domed square white marble building raised on a terrace, from the corners of which rise four slim white minarets. The whole is set in an exquisite garden surrounded by a wall, a gate and a mosque being the subsidiary elements in its composition.

Colonial Valances

The valance which was hung across the fireplace on Sunday in Colonial days was called a ruffled pawn. It was a short petticoat or valance, gathered full on a string and hung across the mantel in Dutch Colonial homes. When the week's cooking was finished, the fireplace was thus decorated for the Sabbath.

SIDEWALKS LAID TO MEMORIAL ARCHWAY

Floodlights Show Off Beauty of Entrance to Gregory Park
at Sixth Street

Two cement sidewalks have been laid by the city to the entrances of the memorial arch at Gregory park from the Sixth street, Juniper location. The expense was met by an appropriation from the city council and the work was done under the direction of City Engineer R. T. Campbell.

The arch is beautifully set off by the two 300 watt flood lights which illuminate it for blocks. The lights were installed by the City Water and Light Department and the cost met by them.

The Brainerd Musical club is considering the planting of trees near the arch in honor of each past president of the club.

Girl Scout Home-Making Activities Stimulated by Aid of Mrs. Hoover

THE FIRST LITTLE HOUSE: Sixty-nine similar houses now thrive from coast-to-coast. (Above) Mrs. Herbert Hoover, formerly president of the Girl Scouts, now honorary president.

Little House in Capitol Originated Idea For Seventy Others

By Adele Entz

SEVENTY Girl Scout "Little Houses," in which Girl Scouts are trained in home-making activities, are now in operation in the United States. Starting with the National Girl Scout Little House in Washington, which has been one of the chief interests of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, now Honorary President of the Girl Scouts, the idea of building or buying such communal centers for local Girl Scout activities has spread from Coast to Coast.

Characterized by Mrs. Hoover as "the halfway house between the playhouse of childhood and the home every girl hopes to achieve some day," the Little House has made interesting history in the Girl Scout movement.

Herbert Hoover laid its cornerstone, when he was Secretary of Commerce and President of the Better Homes in America Foundation, the aim of which was to improve living conditions in our country. The foundation encouraged the building of model homes throughout the country, by various organizations or individuals.

In Washington, the building appropriately designed from the birthplace of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," attracted much widespread attention, when built by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. After its temporary purpose had been fulfilled, the Federation presented it to the Girl Scouts, through Mrs. Hoover, then their President.

Under Mrs. Hoover's direction, the Little House soon took on a distinct individuality. The Little House idea began to grow. Mrs. Hoover believed that here could be gratified the feminine urge, which begins way back in the muddle days, for domesticity, cooking, playing with dolls, for having one's own spot where mothers may be imitated in every household pursuit. The Little House provides an outlet for this instinct, and the Girl Scout program fosters it toward practical application.

In every community which has a Little House, and in the many which are erecting them, the building is recognized as a home-making center. The Girl Scouts themselves have opportunity to help plan the color schemes of the homes, to assist in the selection of the curtains and rugs and to make their collective contributions to its charm.

When it is possible to have grounds about the Little House, care and imagination may be expended on creating a delightful garden. Mrs. Hoover, ardent and enthusiastic supporter of Girl Scouting, takes particular pride and interest in the Washington Little House. She recently helped in the planting of a rock garden there, and has been among the donors of plants and flowers to the Girl Scout memory garden.

In 1925, while Dean Sarah Louise Arnold of Boston was President of the girl scout organization, a dinner was given at the Little House for ex-President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, at which Dean Arnold was also a guest, and Mr. James Storrow of Washington, then President Hoover as President of the Girl Scouts, had qualified for their cook's merit badge that year cooked the dinner and served it, under Mrs. Hoover's personal direction.

Since that time, the Little House in Washington has been visited by many notable persons, and has served as an example of hospitality for other Little Houses.

"WHERE'S EMILY?" by CAROLYN WELLS

THE next morning Fleming Stone started out by himself for a short walk, he said, before he took the train to New York.

Aunt Judy offered him the cars in the Knollwood garage, but he said he preferred the train this time.

His short walk took him to one place only, a small house on the edge of the town. An unpretentious place, clearly not the abode of society folk or even well-to-do citizens.

But Stone was satisfied with what he learned there, and took the train at the little railroad station with hope high in his breast.

He put in the day in New York on some quest that seemed to involve hasty trips from one great business building to another. And from each of these Fleming Stone emerged, more and more perturbed, more and more crestfallen, more and more with the ashy grayness of hopeless despair settling down upon his fine, strong face.

"Done!" he told himself, with bitter anguish. "Done! Yet how could I know? How could I guess? Have I really met my Waterloo at last? It can't be possible. I'm so near the truth, so near a solution, and yet—where's Emily?"

He went back to Knollwood, broken and heart sick. Not entirely despairing, for that was not his nature, but so near it as to leave but small leeway for hope.

As he saw the car that was at the station to meet him, and realized there was no one in it but the chauffeur, he was glad, for he did not feel like talking to the young people just then.

By the time he reached the house, he was his own man again, and had concluded that to keep up the morale of the whole case he must put on a more cheerful attitude, which he proceeded to do.

The result was that he presented rather an unreadable countenance to the group awaiting him at the tea table.

"Good hunting?" Gibby asked lightly, for he knew better than to be definitely curious.

"I know," said the astute Betty. "Mr. Stone got part of what I wanted in New York, and part he didn't get."

Again Stone was amazed at her perspicacity, though he sadly realized that though she spoke truly, the part he didn't get was what is known as the lion's share.

But he only said: "Right you are, Betty, as usual," and then he changed the subject to other topics and they all took the hint.

The next day Fleming Stone kept to his rooms most of the time. It was Wednesday. One day more and Emily would be missing a whole week, and already the consensus of Hildale opinion was that she would never be seen again.

Whatever had happened to her, or wherever she was, they felt sure she would never be found alive, if at all.

Some few believed, with the police, that she had inadvertently killed Pauline Pennington, that her sudden temper had caused her to push Pauline over the railing of the bridge, and that, horrified at the position in which this put her, she had run away and would never come back.

Others pooh-poohed this "hearty" as being not at all like Emily Duane to refuse to face the music in any emergency, and these stuck to the belief that she had been seized for the diamonds she wore, and, having put up a fight, had been killed or mortally injured and had been carried off.

Stone rejoined the family at tea-time, and he looked pale and anxious.

"Where does the doctor live?"

he asked, "Dortor Eaton."

They told him and he asked for a car to take him to call on the medical man.

Betty offered to go along, but Stone gently declined her company and went off alone.

"That man's awfully worried," Betty said, and Pete responded:

"I'm glad of it. And I don't mean that the way it sounds. I mean, I'm glad he's got something to worry over—something to chew on. It's more hopeful than when he's serene and calm because there's nothing to look into."

Stone had a short interview with Doctor Eaton, but it was a satisfactory one. He learned from the medical man some facts that he could have found out in no other way, and they went far to confirm what he had called the glimmer of a glow of light on the dark subject.

He went back, and going at once to his rooms, he dressed carefully for dinner. For some aesthetic reason, it always helped Fleming Stone to be well dressed. Especially when he felt dissatisfied with himself or his work. And in this

There, framed in the door-casing stood Emily Duane.

But what an Emily! Wide-eyed, staring vacantly, trying to lift one foot to the doorstep.

Sayre was paralyzed, not believing his senses; the others, too, sat for a moment spellbound, and it was Stone who dashed across the room and gathered the fainting figure into his arms.

"Here—lay her here," cried Rodney, springing to life at last, and helping Stone lay the girl down among the pillows.

"Send for Doctor Eaton," Sayre ordered, and Betty flew to the telephone.

Black Pearl, overhearing something indicative, hovered in the hall.

"Come in, Pearl," Aunt Judy cried out, almost hysterically: "Miss Emily is here!"

"Bress de Lawd," murmured the young negress fervently, and then fell back unobtrusively, yet at hand if needed.

"What's she been, Mis' Bell?" Pearl whispered.

"Hush, we don't know. Don't make any noise."

case he did feel so. Never before had nearly a week elapsed after a crime, without his having found some strong clues or evidence, if not, indeed, having solved the whole question.

"But you have some clues—some evidence"—he remarked to his reflection in the mirror. "Now the thing is to hang on to them and work them up; don't let go of a single loose end."

"I shan't," the reflection in the mirror promised him.

He went downstairs, to receive very genuine compliments from Betty on his dressy effects. A few guests were expected, as Aunt Judy persisted in keeping up the family traditions of hospitality.

But the guests were a little ill at ease and they left early.

The five left sat round the lounge. Rodney in his usual place on the sofa. Betty and Pete near by, Aunt Judy in a big easy chair, and Fleming Stone standing by the fireplace, his elbow on the mantel.

The outside door was open, as the evening was warm, and a footstep on the porch was heard. A stumbling, irresolute footstep, and all looked toward the door.

"No, ma'am."

Yet noise did not disturb Emily Duane. She lay in a dead faint, and beyond holding sal volatile to her nose and fanning her lightly, they dared not go. Almost no word was spoken as they awaited the coming of the doctor.

Betty quietly scanned her appearance.

She was attired just as she was when she had left the tea, when she had told Rodney she was going to the hospital and had gone—where?

Her frock, though somewhat tumbled, was not torn or soiled. Her shoes showed no sign of hard wear or unusual dust or dirt.

She had on no wrap or no hat, and one hand clutched tightly the diamond necklace that hung round her throat.

Sayre, on his knees at her side, looked at her as if he could never look his fill; as if he feared it was all a dream and he must soon awaken.

Aunt Judy went to her chair and sat there, wondering yet grateful that Emily was back with them, whatever her lot might be.

ON REARING CHILDREN from CRIB TO COLLEGE

Compiled by the Editors of THE PARENTS' MAGAZINE

In a thoroughly wholesome household there are enough occupations, enough interests always at hand in the form of things to be done, whether work or play, so that no person can become the dominant center of attention, either for himself or for others. One of the important forces in the direction of a child's attitude toward himself is the attitude of others toward him. If it is obvious that he fills the attention of others, his own attention will soon be turned also primarily to the contemplation of himself. This is why an only child and a delicate child are rather more likely than others to be over-concerned with ideas of self, since they are more likely to realize how largely they figure in the interest of their parents.

Parents, and especially mothers, who want to interpret to their children their sense of debt to other cultures may well use in their homes examples of the art and handicrafts of foreign peoples. Japanese prints bring an international note as well as a welcome splash of color to the library or bedroom. Some of the modern tableware from southern Europe has been designed especially for the delectation of children, and its quaint animal and flower pictures cannot fail to please. A clever woman will recognize the limitless possibilities in this line—India prints, Czechoslovakian embroideries and gaudy dishes, table covers from Austria for both adults and children. Japanese toys, gay Russian boxes. These things of beauty will not merely be introduced into the household and passed without comment; they will become the basis of lessons in world friendship.

Even the intelligent adult of today fails to comprehend how severe reactions are set up in various organs by cold. The moral is obvious—avoid colds strenuously and cure them speedily.

It is interesting to note that in the newer knowledge of foods and diet it has been demonstrated that many foods exposed to sunlight develop food values which they previously lacked. These food values are extremely important in proper diet, hence the value of fresh foods in the diet of the healthy child. Even cod-liver oil becomes much more efficient in the prevention and cure of rickets after its exposure to ultraviolet rays.

Parents, and older brothers and sister, and teachers, too, often err by laughing at or scolding a child for some abnormality which, if ignored, would soon lapse.

Hard-of-hearing children fatigue more easily than others, at least during the so-called period of adjustment to the defect, owing to the extra effort required to keep up the chain of communication with their fellows. This means such children require more rest than normal children at that age.

All young Americans are taught to drink plenty of water. Drinking water is not always readily available in Europe, and is sometimes not safe. Americans are plagued with a continual thirst. When they get beer or wine, they drink it as if it were water. The problem of water is one which few American travelers, except those who never venture out of certain de luxe hotels, have ever solved. The best thing one can do is to make an allowance ahead of time in one's budget for the exorbitant price of bottled water, and then cheerfully pay it and forget about it.

Golf Fashions Are New

Attracting Attention

Language Changes Made Over "Precise" Protests

Until about the middle of the Nineteenth century it was usual in pronouncing the word humble to refrain from sounding the h. Generally the word was preceded by an instead of by a. The changing to sounding the h came gradually as a matter of usage, as many changes in language come. In the end usage must be followed, though precise speakers resist it for a time. Even in fairly recent years a few persons persisted in pronouncing humble without the h. The variation you have observed on this point between an early and a later edition of Webster's dictionary is accounted for by acceptance of the change by the later editors. The gradual alteration in usage concerning the word humble was a subject of protest as long ago as 1853, when a correspondent of the periodical "Notes and Queries" illustrated his contention that the h should be silent by giving a list of what he stated to be the derivations of words in which the h should be silent. The words were heir, honest, honor, hour, humble and humor.

Of Course Henry Had Sent That Letter, but—

He kicked off his wet shoes, slid his tired feet into a pair of carpet slippers, lit his pipe, sat down in the easy chair with a sigh of relief, and declared that 20,000 wild horses couldn't make him stir from the house until the following morning.

"Henry," said his wife, "you posted that letter I gave you this morning, I suppose?"

"I did, my love," he answered, unblushingly.

"I asked mother to postpone her visit for a while," his wife continued. "You see—"

Henry did so. His wife saw, too. What she saw was the tired man jump from his chair, kick off his slippers, put on his shoes, and slip out into the murky street. And when, five minutes later, Henry came back with the tale that he had been to see how the thermometer outside the post office stood, she smiled.

Spanish Homes

Of all the Mediterranean styles of architecture in use today, there is probably none more popular or better known, especially for residential purposes, than the Spanish with its life and color.

The Spanish, having apparently been a home-loving race, developed their residential architecture to a higher degree than any other type of building. Where the Greek masterpieces are found in religious buildings, as is the case in most historical styles, the Spanish seem to have studied architecture from a livable point of view. Their principal contribution being residential, the Spanish house was designed for its owner's comfort in every way possible.

Stone Newspapers

Newspapers in the form of large stone tablets have been discovered during excavations at Ostia, in Italy. One is said to record the death of Pompey in 49 B. C., and the will of Julius Caesar with his bequests to the people of Rome. Because of his dispatches from the war in Gaul, Caesar is often called the father of journalism, but it seems that Cicero, born in 106 B. C., has a greater claim to his distinction. Cicero used to post in the galleries of his villa at Tuscum a record or journal of the passing events of note, with a list of births, deaths, and marriages. From a letter of Cicero's it is known that he used a system of abbreviated writing.

"Underground Railway"

The name of the system used to help slaves to freedom, the "Underground Railway" arose from the exaggerated use of railway terms in reference to the conduct of the system. Levi Coffin and Robert Purvis were the presidents of the road. Various routes were known as lines, stopping places were called stations, those who aided the system were called conductors, and the slaves were referred to as packages or freight. The system reached from Kentucky and Virginia across Ohio, and from Maryland across Pennsylvania and New York or New England.

"Old Nick" in Ireland

Because Ireland is the island of the saints, the Irish are not afraid of the devil, though he has left his mark in many parts of the Emerald Isle. In beautiful Wicklow is the Devil's Glen, cut out by the angry slashing of Old Nick's tail when he failed to lure a fair maiden from her convent. In Tipperary is the Devil's Bit—a huge bite taken out of the mountain range and spat down to the plain below, where it still stands as the Rock of Cashel. Then, of course, in Killarney is the Devil's Punch Bowl—but all it contains in these days is pure water.

Ancient Counterfeiters

Money forging was a flourishing business among the ancient Romans, judging from finds at Treves, Prussia, of tools and matrices for the coining of denarii. Excavations brought to light a great many matrices and castings made of bronze which were used to manufacture these silver coins. Proof that these implements, dating back to between 260 and 300 A. D., were tools of money forgers, is established by the fact that there was then no official mint at Treves.

May Be Tom Heflin's

Foe for Alabama Seat

John H. Bankhead, Birmingham attorney and son of the late Senator Bankhead, will be the opponent of Frederick I. Thompson, publisher of a chain of Alabama newspapers, at the polls when a Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate will be selected. The winner will be pitted against Senator Thomas J. Heflin.

Wooden Arrow Shaft Best

An arrow with a metal shaft may be shot with accuracy, but not so consistently as the wooden shaft. The reason is that the metal shaft does not have the power of recovery that nature has put into the well-seasoned Norwegian pine shaft. By recovery is meant the action of the shaft as it leaves the bow.

On the Sky Ceiling

The sky ceiling now means the lowest layer of clouds, Aviators, and particularly those using gliders, must study the weather, especially the clouds, like any old-time shepherd. Cumulus or white wool-pack clouds form at the top of a rising column of hot air. A glider reaching this column can rise on it and hang suspended just below the sky ceiling where the hot air condenses into clouds.—St. Nicholas.

Life is a festival only to the wise. Seen from the nook and chimney-side of prudence, it wears a ragged and dangerous front.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Lasting Icebergs

Icebergs often last for many years. Some of those in the Atlantic are believed to have been in existence for 200 years.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Economy Drug Co., Johnson's Pharmacy, advt.

STICKY GUMMY VALVES

CAUSE INCREASED GASOLENE CONSUMPTION

use KOOLMOTOR GASOLENE

HARMFUL GUM HAS BEEN REMOVED

Recent tests show that as much as 20% to 30% of unburned gasolene blows out through the exhaust — unused and wasted — when valves do not function perfectly. Excessive gum in gasolene causes faulty valve action — brings about delayed seating and, in some cases, complete sticking of intake valves.

Koolmotor — the original high test, anti-knock green gas — is free from harmful gum. It keeps your valves clean and free moving — always at their best. Extra care and extra refining, known as the special Cities Service mini-gum process, reduces the gum content in Koolmotor Gasolene to a harmless minimum.

When this thoroughbred of motor fuels reaches your car it is powerful and clean burning — your protection against high fuel consumption and the expense of sticky valves. Keep your engine clean and powerful by keeping your tank full of Koolmotor — the gas that is free from harmful gum.

ON REARING CHILDREN FROM CRIB TO COLLEGE

Compiled by the Editors of THE PARENTS' MAGAZINE

In a thoroughly wholesome household there are enough occupations, enough interests always at hand in the form of things to be done, whether work or play, so that no person can become the dominant center of attention, either for himself or for others. One of the important forces in the direction of a child's attitude toward himself is the attitude of others toward him. If it is obvious that he fills the attention of others, his own attention will soon be turned also primarily to the contemplation of himself. This is why an only child and a delicate child are rather more likely than others to be over-concerned with ideas of self, since they are more likely to realize how largely they figure in the interest of their parents.

Parents, and especially mothers, who want to interpret to their children their sense of debt to other cultures may well use in their homes examples of the art and handicrafts of foreign peoples. Japanese prints bring an international note as well as a welcome splash of color to the library or bedroom. Some of the modern tableware from southern Europe has been designed especially for the decoration of children, and its quaint animal and flower pictures cannot fail to please. A clever woman will recognize the limitless possibilities in this line—India prints, Czechoslovakian embroideries and gaudy dishes, table covers from Austria for both adults and children. Japanese toys, gay Russian boxes. These things of beauty will not merely be introduced into the household and passed without comment; they will become the basis of lessons in world friendship.

Even the intelligent adult of today fails to comprehend how severe reactions are set up in various organs by cold. The moral is obvious—avoid colds strenuously and cure them speedily.

It is interesting to note that in the newer knowledge of foods and diet it has been demonstrated that many foods exposed to sunlight develop food values which they previously lacked. These food values are extremely important in proper diet, hence the value of fresh foods in the diet of the healthy child. Even cod-liver oil becomes much more efficient in the prevention and cure of rickets after its exposure to ultraviolet rays.

Parents, and older brothers and sisters, and teachers, too, often err by laughing at or scolding a child for some abnormality which, if ignored, would soon lapse.

Hard-of-hearing children fatigue more easily than others, at least during the so-called period of adjustment to the defect, owing to the extra effort required to keep up the chain of communication with their fellows. This means such children require more rest than normal children at that age.

All young Americans are taught to drink plenty of water. Drinking water is not always readily available in Europe, and is sometimes not safe. Americans are plagued with a continual thirst. When they get beer or wine, they drink it as if it were water. The problem of water is one which few American travelers, except those who never venture out of certain de luxe hotels, have ever solved. The best thing one can do is to make an allowance ahead of time in one's budget for the exorbitant price of bottled water, and then cheerfully pay it and forget about it.

Golf Fashions Are Now Attracting Attention

Language Changes Made Over "Precise" Protests

Until about the middle of the Nineteenth century it was usual in pronouncing the word humble to refrain from sounding the h. Generally the word was preceded by an instead of by a. The changing to sounding the h came gradually as a matter of usage, as many changes in language come. In the end usage must be followed, though precise speakers resist it for a time. Even in fairly recent years a few persons persisted in pronouncing humble without the h. The variation you have observed on this point between an early and a later edition of Webster's dictionary is accounted for by acceptance of the change by the later editors. The gradual alteration in usage concerning the word humble was a subject of protest as long ago as 1853, when a correspondent of the periodical "Notes and Queries" illustrated his contention that the h should be silent by giving a list of what he stated to be the derivations of words in which the h should be silent. The words were heir, honest, honor, hour, humble and humor.

Of Course Henry Had Sent That Letter, but—

He kicked off his wet shoes, slid his tired feet into a pair of carpet slippers, lit his pipe, sat down in the easy chair with a sigh of relief, and declared that 20,000 wild horses couldn't make him stir from the house until the following morning.

"Henry," said his wife, "you posted that letter I gave you this morning, I suppose?"

"I did, my love," he answered, unblushingly.

"I asked mother to postpone her visit for a while," his wife continued. "You see—"

Henry did so. His wife saw, too. What she saw was the tired man jump from his chair, kick off his slippers, put on his shoes, and slip out into the murky street. And when, five minutes later, Henry came back with the tale that he had been to see how the thermometer outside the post office stood, she smiled.

Spanish Homes

Of all the Mediterranean styles of architecture in use today, there is probably none more popular or better known, especially for residential purposes, than the Spanish with its life and color.

The Spanish, having apparently been a home-loving race, developed their residential architecture to a higher degree than any other type of building. Where the Greek masterpieces are found in religious buildings, as is the case in most historical styles, the Spanish seem to have studied architecture from a livable point of view. Their principal contribution being residential, the Spanish house was designed for its owner's comfort in every way possible.

Stone Newspapers

Newspapers in the form of large stone tablets have been discovered during excavations at Ostia, in Italy. One is said to record the death of Pompey in 49 B. C., and the will of Julius Caesar with his bequests to the people of Rome. Because of his dispatches from the war in Gaul, Caesar is often called the father of journalism, but it seems that Cicero, born in 106 B. C., has a greater claim to his distinction. Cicero used to post in the galleries of his villa at Tusculum a record or journal of the passing events of note, with a list of births, deaths, and marriages. From a letter of Cicero's it is known that he used a system of abbreviated writing.

"Underground Railway"

The name of the system used to help slaves to freedom, the "Underground Railway" arose from the exaggerated use of railway terms in reference to the conduct of the system. Levi Coffin and Robert Purvis were the presidents of the road. Various routes were known as lines, stopping places were called stations, those who aided the system were called conductors, and the slaves were referred to as packages or freight. The system reached from Kentucky and Virginia across Ohio, and from Maryland across Pennsylvania and New York or New England.

"Old Nick" in Ireland

Because Ireland is the island of the saints, the Irish are not afraid of the devil, though he has left his mark in many parts of the Emerald Isle. In beautiful Wicklow is the Devil's Glen, cut out by the angry slashing of Old Nick's tail when he failed to lure a fair maiden from her convent. In Tipperary is the Devil's Bit—a huge bite taken out of the mountain range and spat down to the plain below, where it still stands as the Rock of Cashel. Then, of course, in Killarney is the Devil's Punch Bowl—but all it contains in these days is pure water.

Ancient Counterfeiters

Money forging was a flourishing business among the ancient Romans, judging from finds at Treves, Prussia, of tools and matrices for the coining of denarii. Excavations brought to light a great many matrices and castings made of bronze which were used to manufacture these silver coins. Proof that these implements, dating back to between 260 and 300 A. D., were tools of money forgers, is established by the fact that there was then no official mint at Treves.

May Be Tom Heflin's Foe for Alabama Seat

John H. Bankhead, Birmingham attorney and son of the late Senator Bankhead, will be the opponent of Frederick I. Thompson, publisher of a chain of Alabama newspapers, at the polls when a Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate will be selected. The winner will be pitted against Senator Thomas J. Heflin.

Wooden Arrow Shaft Best

An arrow with a metal shaft may be shot with accuracy, but not so consistently as the wooden shaft. The reason is that the metal shaft does not have the power of recovery that nature has put into the well-seasoned Norwegian pine shaft. By recovery is meant the action of the shaft as it leaves the bow.

On the Sky Ceiling

The sky ceiling now means the lowest layer of clouds. Aviators, and particularly those using gliders, must study the weather, especially the clouds, like any old-time shepherd. Cumulus or white wool-pack clouds form at the top of a rising column of hot air. A glider reaching this column can rise on it and hang suspended just below the sky ceiling where the hot air condenses into clouds.—St. Nicholas.

Life is a festival only to the wise. Seen from the nook and chimney-side of prudence, it wears a ragged and dangerous front.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Lasting Icebergs

Icebergs often last for many years. Some of those in the Atlantic are believed to have been in existence for 200 years.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Economy Drug Co., Johnson's Pharmacy, advt.

RIVETS MAKE THE TANK-CAR OIL-TIGHT

The TORRID ZONE STEEL FURNACE is gas-tight and dust-tight because it is riveted

WARM air, the choice of all real authorities on healthful heating, reaches perfection through the Torrid Zone. The special construction of this longer-lasting furnace insures clean, warm air, at all times free from fumes — and brighter and happier homes.

For just as the tank-car is made leak-proof by hot riveting and cold-calking . . . so the Torrid Zone Furnace of boiler-plate steel is made gas, smoke and dust-tight.

That means no gas-tainted air when the furnace is freshly fueled or banked for the night. No dust or smoke from the registers following a shake down. Even the cellar or furnace-room will be cleaner than you ever thought it could be, because of the unusually snug firing and ash doors. Every part of the Torrid Zone is as tight as a drum.

Two other essentials to health and comfort — humidity and ventilation — obtainable only with warm air systems are a part of the Torrid Zone. The humidifier has twice the evaporating area inside the casing of ordinary water pans, and it is positioned for rapid evaporation. Air circulation is guaranteed when an authorized Lennox Furnace man installs according to the Standard Code.

The efficiency of a Torrid Zone magnifies your coal pile. Oversized heating surface causes Torrid Zone furnaces to produce from 10% to 20% more heat from the fuel than other furnaces, hence they will heat with less fuel than other furnaces will consume. Models for soft coal, coke, hard coal, lignite, wood, gas or oil.

Come in and see why the Torrid Zone is the most desirable furnace that heating science has yet devised. Look at its sturdy locomotive grates and "lazy" shaker. Get the booklet that explains its features in detail. We will gladly furnish plans and estimates for either new or old homes or other buildings. Factory blueprints obtained for special problems. Made by the LENNOX FURNACE COMPANY, Syracuse, New York — Marshalltown, Iowa — Toronto, Canada.

Pajamas, Overalls, Bathing Suits, Sandals Among the Requirements.

If you're a smart little poor girl, or a thrifty little rich girl, you may reduce your summer wardrobe to the nth power of efficiency by living in beach clothes this season, advises a fashion correspondent in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

And by taking such steps you will not only reduce the overhead to an exhilarating extent, but you will increase your apparent supply of it no end, and generally have a grand time.

If you're living at the seashore, or even if you aren't, all you need to be well dressed during the impending dog days is an adequate supply of dashing beach pajamas, overalls, a bathing suit or two, some beach sandals, and, if you will be conventional, a couple of tennis frocks.

It's all very simple—and, my dear, the freedom it gives you!

The shops these days are showing beach apparel that would strike any landlubber's heart green with envy.

angement, with sunback, done up in every possible combination of colors and materials. There are white or tan jersey shirts, to match the color of your skin, combined with striped flannel shorts, or solid color ones in black, navy or vivid greens and what-nots.

A suit that is too tricky for words and has been in high favor at the early resorts is composed simply of a polo shirt and shorts of white linen.

There's a beret to match, if you are so addicted, and the outfit may be worn for swimming, tennis, lawn croquet, ping pong or whatever your little heart desires.

The good old black jersey suits are as smart as ever, especially when worn with a stitched belt, all in one with the suit, which stands up and out stiffly from the waist in a surprisingly trig way.

Skirts to take on and off are made for beach wear this season—slip on the skirt and you're dressed for a stroll along the boardwalk. Slip it off and you're garbed for the surf. Neat.

Awning-striped shoes with crepe rubber soles are the newest development in the sports footwear line. They may be worn in the water, on the beach, on the tennis court, or anywhere.

Blue Sports Ensemble

Popular at Le Touquet

Le Touquet is one of the most fashionable resorts about Paris and one which attracts people especially at this season. Style reports from there emphasize all shades of blues for the sports ensemble. Sky blue has been especially mentioned—also white and shades of salmon and azalea pink are also commented on favorably.

It is also pertinent that knitted jumpers are reported to be more in vogue than blouses and that cardigan suits were reigning favorites.

Skirts were flared more often than pleated, the flare accomplished by vertical bands enlarging toward the hem.

Vionnet's tweed coat worn with leather belt was outstanding, some of these being furled, others with the characteristic Vionnet scarf collar.

All white ensembles registered—shantung being especially mentioned.

Evening Wedding Gowns

Bridal gowns for evening weddings run to cut-out backs and very low décolletage. They are sleeveless, but with them are worn white kid gloves of more than elbow and even of shoulder length. Ivory satin is a favorite material. There is a long train. Bridal veils again are voluminous and worn over the face, falling in front as far as the knees. The bride's bouquet has in many instances gone back to the nosegay rimmed by a tulle, lace or silver paper ruffle.

Blessed Collar Button
By CLARISSA MACKIE
(Copyright.)

DANIEL MARSH was dressing to go out for the evening. He hadn't quite decided whether he would go to a theater or to one of the smart hotels where he could dine in more or less state, and then remain for dancing. He knew very few girls in New York, anyway, and it was not likely that any of them would happen to be at the hotel tonight, just because he was feeling rather lonely in the bigness of the city. Dan was making good in a very fine position downtown. "Blazes!" he exclaimed wrathfully, when a collar button eluded him in the traditional manner and landed with a tinkle near the steam radiator. He spread a newspaper down on the floor, and kneeling down gingerly examined around and underneath the warm heater. Dust—fluff—some burnt matches—nothing else. Then he saw the square opening around the steam pipe, where it entered the room. Something gleamed in the shallow hole and Daniel fished for it with a knife blade. He brought his find carefully to the surface and took it to the bureau. Then for the second time that night, Dan Marsh yelled, "Blazes!" The collar button was not there, but he had brought out of the hole a beautiful diamond ring together with a lot of dust. It was a woman's ring, with two very fine stones in an exquisite setting. "Now for the collar button," said Dan remorselessly, and stepping back felt something under his foot. It was the collar button, squashed flat. Fifteen minutes later, Daniel Marsh left the house immaculately attired and with his foot on the first round of the ladder of adventure. In his waistcoat pocket was the diamond ring and the flattened collar button. On the way downstairs he had interviewed Mrs. Weed, his landlady. "I was wondering who had occupied my room, before I came," said Dan. "I found a book there—" he had the book under his arm, a modern novel. "Oh, Miss Pearson must have left it here—I don't believe she wanted it. She was always losing things—lost her diamond ring right in the room the very day she left. I told her that I didn't suspect Amanda, the maid, and she was real nice about it." "I suppose she went home," ventured Dan. "No—it happened this way—well, she couldn't afford to stay here—so she took a cheaper room around at Miss Gilroy's on Amsterdam avenue." With this information Dan decided not to go down to the hotel and dance, he would follow the leading of the blessed collar button—he was beginning to call it that. He dined at a neighborhood restaurant, and then found his way to Miss Gilroy's apartment. A colored maid answered the door. "Miss Pearson, yes, sir. Here's a gentleman to see you, Miss Pearson," she said and led him into a small living room, where some one was playing softly on the piano. The playing stopped, and the player arose and faced Daniel Marsh. "I am Miss Pearson," she said coldly. Dan quailed before the forbidding countenance of a middle-aged woman, but he found courage to inquire whether she had not boarded with Mrs. Weed. "I don't owe her a cent of money," said Miss Pearson stiffly. "Of course not," soothed Daniel Marsh, "I merely came to inquire about—you lost a diamond ring, didn't you?" "I never talk to reporters," sniffed the singular Miss Pearson, "besides, I

Blessed Collar Button

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Copyright.)

DANIEL MARSH was dressing to go out for the evening. He hadn't quite decided whether he would go to a theater or to one of the smart hotels where he could dine in more or less state, and then remain for dancing. He knew very few girls in New York, anyway, and it was not likely that any of them would happen to be at the hotel tonight, just because he was feeling rather lonely in the bigness of the city. Dan was making good in a very fine position downtown. "Blazes!" he exclaimed wrathfully, when a collar button eluded him in the traditional manner and landed with a tinkle near the steam radiator. He spread a newspaper down on the floor, and kneeling down gingerly examined around and underneath the warm heater. Dust—fluff—some burnt matches—nothing else. Then he saw the square opening around the steam pipe, where it entered the room.

Something gleamed in the shallow hole and Daniel fished for it with a knife blade. He brought his find carefully to the surface and took it to the bureau. Then for the second time that night, Dan Marsh yelled, "Blazes!"

The collar button was not there, but he had brought out of the hole a beautiful diamond ring together with a lot of dust. It was a woman's ring, with two very fine stones in an exquisite setting.

"Now for the collar button," said Dan remorselessly, and stepping back felt something under his foot. It was the collar button, squashed flat.

Fifteen minutes later, Daniel Marsh left the house immaculately attired and with his foot on the first round of the ladder of adventure. In his waistcoat pocket was the diamond ring and the flattened collar button. On the way downstairs he had interviewed Mrs. Weed, his landlady.

"I was wondering who had occupied my room, before I came," said Dan. "I found a book there—" he had the book under his arm, a modern novel. "Oh, Miss Pearson must have left it here—I don't believe she wanted it. She was always losing things—lost her diamond ring right in the room the very day she left. I told her that I didn't suspect Amanda, the maid, and she was real nice about it."

"I suppose she went home," ventured Dan.

"No—it happened this way—well, she couldn't afford to stay here—so she took a cheaper room around at Miss Gilroy's on Amsterdam avenue."

With this information Dan decided not to go down to the hotel and dance, he would follow the leading of the blessed collar button—he was beginning to call it that.

He dined at a neighborhood restaurant, and then found his way to Miss Gilroy's apartment. A colored maid answered the door.

"Miss Pearson, yes, sir. Here's a gentleman to see you, Miss Pearson," she said and led him into a small living room, where some one was playing softly on the piano. The playing stopped, and the player arose and faced Daniel Marsh.

"I am Miss Pearson," she said coldly.

Dan quailed before the forbidding countenance of a middle-aged woman, but he found courage to inquire whether she had not boarded with Mrs. Weed.

"I don't owe her a cent of money," said Miss Pearson stiffly.

"Of course not," soothed Daniel Marsh, "I merely came to inquire about—you lost a diamond ring, didn't you?"

"I never talk to reporters," sniffed the singular Miss Pearson, "besides, I found the ring in my trunk—lost it while packing."

"You couldn't tell me who occupied that room before you did?" ventured Daniel once more.

"I could tell you that—it was Miss Lincoln—Elsie Lincoln, she's a stenographer in the Upanddown bank—she moved to another house and still takes her meals at Mrs. Weed's."

The Upanddown bank—his own place of employment! And Miss Lincoln was Mr. Bradish's stenographer—the prettiest girl Daniel had ever seen—curling black hair, soft blue eyes and a creamy skin—a girl that seemed like home girls, somehow.

Did Daniel Marsh's alarm clock go off an hour earlier the next morning? It did! Did he make himself more than immaculate? Yes, even so, and he hurried downstairs at 7:15 to eat breakfast at Mrs. Weed's now glorified table. Heretofore, he had preferred to eat anywhere else than that dismal board. He waited a half-hour before Elsie Lincoln came down in her smart little hat and spring suit. Her cheeks were rosy when he came and sat beside her.

Daniel Marsh asked her about a ring—had she ever lost one? Yes, indeed she had—she described it minutely, said her dearest daddy had given it to her, and she just didn't know whether it was on the street or in the house. It had simply vanished.

Mrs. Weed glimpsed the pantomime from the pantry door. "These young folks," she groaned, "strangers one day and engaged the next—he giving her a ring so soon!"

One day they told her—and Elsie displayed a very large solitaire diamond set in platinum. As for the collar button that really brought them together, it occupies a tiny frame, and only Dan and Elsie know its meaning.

Shows Old Superstition

Graves dating from 3000 to 100 B. C. were found at the foot of the ancient fortress Hohentwiel at the crossroads of the old highways from the Rhine to Lake Constance and from Stuttgart to Zurich. In many of the graves mutilation of the corpses indicated that the living feared bodily resurrection of the dead and sought to prevent it.

Success Rules

If you wish success in life make perseverance your bosom friend, experience your wise counselor, caution your elder brother, and hope your guardian genius.—Addison.
